Does anybody have a Generals ISO with or without Zero Hour that is legitimate? It seems that the ISO I torrented is cracked, and I have a legitimate key (TFD) that I want to use.

If I have TFD, why don't I just install it with that DVD? Great question! The obvious conclusion one should come to is that I either lost the DVD or it's fucked up. In this situation, it is the latter conclusion. It keeps giving me redundancy errors whenever I get to the data cabs.

Any help with this would be great. Apparently, TPB is down, and I really don't feel like downloading cracked ISOs time and time again until I can find a legit copy.

A legit copy would not exist as, IIRC, it has copy protection so there would at least have been an intervention to remove the copy protection. Besides this, no way we can know that you have a legit key, so topic closed.
