There is no cheat for this game.I guess that you are on escort Mobius level. It took me several tries to finish but I manage to do it. You just have to be careful that not to turn corners so fast because mobius will only stop at certain points and if you run pass the point he will continue to the next spot.

Lol, Mobius is a bit of an idiot in that level. It took me a few attempts to pass it as well.I was looking through the multiplayer demo always.dat file and I found a .dss file relating to a god mode. (god-.dss) In the pic, Havoc's wearing gold-tinted sunglasses. That would have only been used in the development of the game though.You don't need to cheat. Some areas are difficult for a reason... to make the gameplay last longer. (and or course to frustrate people!)Stickman

Take a seat...ole' Harvy here is gonna tell you a story...There once was a boy, who wanted the latest greatest video game (he was young still and had not graduated to pc games), after much clamoring and pestering of his parents to buy him the $50 Greatest Game On Earth, and he recieved it. Upon reaching level two, much to his dismay a very tough boss blocked his way. He searched all the magazines he could (since he had no internet in the early 90's)to find a cheat code or "god mode" to help him with this foe. Lo, and behold, he found his "god" tome and brought it home. He whipped out his controller entered the code "U,D,U,D,L,R,L,R,B,A,B,A, sel, start" AH-HA it worked, none will stand in his way!!! And this poor boy, beat the Greatest Game In tne World over a single weekend. When his friends would tell of how hard this or that boss was, he would just stay quiet, not really feeling like a real gamer. And from that day forward he vowed a solemn oath to the terrible and feared Gamer Gods, that he would never use a cheat again (unless he beat the game and wanted to screw around with it) and would build up his skillz to such a height, that it would dwarf any "cheat" code in the land. And he did.Morale of the story: YOU PAID $50 FOR THIS GAME, WHY RUIN IT BY CHEATING!!!![April 04, 2002: Message edited by: HarvyWallBanger]
