These are such n00b tactics.All the oldbies know the REAL strategies, and they have nothing to do with killing the enemy, destroying the enemys buildings, gaining any points whatsoever, or doing anything,like, playing the game at all. Jeez. Learn some REAL tactics ya n00b.....

the true renegade master does not have to actually play the game. he needs not a computer nor a monitor(or merrimac). he has no clothing nor worldly posessions of any kind. he neither bathes nor brushes his teeth. he meditates on the game only, and suffers a vow of poverty and silence for eternity....d@mn i'm glad i'm not a renegade master!!

LOL!! OK how about this for a tip.When placing timed C4 don't stand to close to it and forget about the fact that it IS timed C4,trust me you'll kick yourself.I know this out of personal experience but I take consolation in the fact that the barracks still was blown sky high

I find that the best tactic is-and /i'm giving away priceless information here-is to click on the left mouse button occasionally. Especially when that little circle thing is in front of the enemy. It is amazing what happens. I won't tell you what happens, you'll have to find out yourself.

Zukkov u tell us about renegade master => thx, but not about this intermediate state the renegade warrior : a true code of honor.- never shoot someone in the head : not fair (especially as a sniper)- never attack infantry in a vehicle (especially in a s-tank): unfair => give your vehicle.- never repair your vehicle or building. If it was damaged, you deserve it. You just need to learn more.- never use a beacon : just too easy to use. No real fight (especially on pedestal).- if someone is shooting at you, don't open fire : this is just lame. Show him your superiority with your dodge skill and humiliate him.- fight with your knife. What !? u don't have one !? Go ! And find your true weapon n00w ! U can't enter the game without ur knife !

Naa, the TRUE renegade master shaves his head and sells pictures of Kane at his local airport... (look for me at the Ben Gurion airport in Israel) shooting at people? blowing things up? what does that have to do with anything?
