Pretty cool story.

Does this mean we can finally go back in the pool?

i thought it was the monkeys.

It was, but people started injecting the monkey's blood into people and that's how it spread to us.

It was an experiment to cure another disease. If someone's so desperate they need to have sex with a monkey, then I doubt they would have much human contact.

I don't know, I'm pretty sure you are mistaken. The last time I checked, the exact origin of HIV and AIDS was unknown or untraceable.

The virus takes a long time to allow itself to be seen, I'm talking years, so I doubt that even if such experiments existed, the virus itself would be traceable back to them.

I reckon H.I.V and A.I.D's are standard infections that shouldn't be cured, They exist to remind you that you stuck your dick in the wrong vagina, and now your exceptionally fucked for most of your life.

Go condoms?

It's A.I.D.S! Not A.I.D's!

The 'S' is part of the acronym too! It stands for 'Syndrome.'

Billions of people have died from this disease and you can't even spell its name correctly! FOR SHAME!

Yes, and Osteoporosis exists to remind women that they have to drink a fuckload of milk.

I don't really have an evidence to back it up, I was just talking to my optician.

Actually that is very little chance of getting it from oral. Only if there is a bleeding cut in her mouth.

You can only get it if it enters your blood, so unless you're exchanging blood, then there is little chance of getting it.

Yeah I stopped caring about correctly spelling the name of that blood infection when it became clear to me that I'll never be a doctor, know what I mean?

and Snipe, A.I.D's ('A.I.D.S' for that smart ass) and H.I.V are blood infections, specifically a white blood cell infection, though it can be transmitted through blood, breast milk, vaginal fluid and semen, can't be transmitted through kissing, or getting a blow job, unless she bites her tongue or lip before sucking you off, in which case, your fucked.
