i mean, can't they see you??if i had to make a change to your way, i would use it only on a weapon respawn on map, and use the stealth unit to get a sniping rifle, reload via PT, THEN get on the harv. Much safer, sneakier, and unseen.

Cool tip (I'll have to try that), but for 1. it's fairly obvious you are standing on harvester, and 2. Won't they shoot back? I prefer just sniping halfway up some hill. Maybe you should try jumping on the back of the harvester with a Rocket Launcher Soldier or something that fights better in the open.

I take for granted that when you say you can't place any objects on a tank, you don't include mines as objects. Otherwise, you've never tried to blow up a tank with a remote or timed mine.. which is quite effective.

You guys, ACK is right, it is Nod. Or you could have Brotherhood of Nod. But NOD, is Nod. ACK is right, small games have small points. I've never tried standing on a vehicle, and I can't type well, so, I can't tell teammates to drive a Chameleon near an incline or something, without being sniped or something. That would be cool, putting five people on a Chameleon and running around the center of the map... Hehe. IT'S Nod, NOT NOD!-Drahcir well back to the topic you can also jump on top of the harvery with just about any vechiles on the level with the bridge that goes over the tiberium, two walk ways to get up to higher ground, with one side of map, only foot troopers and other tanks. Ive gone it twice once with the Nod's artillery.... i got up there on the harvey but fell off.

Anyone who is teetering so close to the edge that being flamed on a gaming message board makes them kill people, well I'm pretty sure something else would have set them off...I get way more frustrated at idiots in DC traffic than even the worst people here True, most ppl are nice by nature. But it seems in today's society that is changing fast. Many people don't seem to give a rip about anybody but themselves. I have always been curious about what makes a perosn go over the edge. I've asked many mental health professionals if they could answer. They always say people will act extremely frustrated. With my dealings with the military, they always ask "are you thinking about hurting yourself or others." I think if someone has decided to finally strike back, they are no longer thinking logically and will not be honest with any medical people. Their wires have already been shorted.I myself am full of kinetic energy. Stagnant and harmless until provoked, like many people. I know not to just strike out and screw with people just because I can. 1 it's not right, and 2, you never know where they are mentally. But these people that are so quick to attack everyone just because they never received a swift kick in the a$$ as a kid scream fowl when someone holds them accountable. Many of the horrific murders always go back to an individual that was an outcast of some kind. I really don't believe that they chose to be an outcast. But because they are a little different, our society looks at that as weakness and people make themselves feel good and strong by picking on the weak. Beware the wounded animal. It fights with more fervor than a healthy animal, because it is fighting for its very life. [October 06, 2002, 02:33: Message edited by: AndrewCow]

Well maybe not, there are some kooks on way right, but I'm Conservative as it gets. SAVAGE NATION!!!!!!!!!!!!!! For those of you that listen to talk radio.I am against government intervention to "help" people. I'm against affrimative action, I think that degrades the black community. I'm against welfare, I feel it enables the lazy to stay lazy. Thos are ALL LIBERAL programs. I'm for small government, let people decide what they do with money for schools. Free trade, but the government continually steps in and helps the companies that stick it to the people. They bailed the airlines out after the terroist attack. What did the companies do? They laid off thousands of people instead of firing the top exuctives that make MULTI millions of dollars plus stock options.Liberal? don't think so.And dude, I have nothing against you. But, I do have a lot against the way you talk down to everyone. I don't know if you were ever taught manners as a child. But this country is going to he77 in a hand basket because people don't give a rip about others. Manners go a long way, and more than that is tact. That is something that you will need being in the military. Knowing how to deal with those in leadership that think they know better. Being smart means nothing if you do not possess the skills to help others with that knowledge. [October 06, 2002, 21:27: Message edited by: AndrewCow]
