If you were pointing this out to just him, you could have just pm'd him rather than open up a whole new topic for it..

I guess because its a request its even more important to spell a name right.. At the moment I read the way how he wrights my name I didn't took the request serious anymore

Anant you will be surprised what a difference it can make to spell someones name right.
(especially when you want something from that person.)

i found it funny but you do need to at least spell it correct, it doesn't seem logical if you read it that way.
