I think the Orca should be more maneuverable and have a bit more throttle to it, if any of you have played the original Command & Conquer you'd know what I'm talking about.

you say that? It's already the fastest unit in game, isn't it (among with the other choppers)? And a lot of things have been changed from the original C&C.

No, they are pretty fast. Just watch them go buy; when you are in one yourself you seem to move slower than you actually are.

You gotta build up some speed, just like a humvee. Myself I would like to see the orca have more powerful missles and the apache faster && more manueverable, too add more variety and preference.

They are the biggest slackers I've ever seen actually.. They should of had a patch to balance things out yesterday imo.
