I've decided to post the winners in one topic instead of advancing per topic.

Quote:TSU vs Jelly
- Jelly advances
* TSU forfeited

OS vs SoQ
- OS advances
* BP equal, win by points

CW.cc vs Atomix
- CW.cc advances
* BK twice

St0rm vs KoSS2
- KoSS2 advances
* St0rm forfeited

NE vs Shadow
- ???

Because the round has already been extended once, in the normal circumstances I would have disqualified both NE and Shadow-Team for not playing their matches. But I won't do that and here's why.

Mr.Mom will most likely not run / support in running this tournament anymore, because his RL issues (which he had before tournament start) have escalated. I cannot go into details here, but I wish him the best luck fighting his way through his issues.

That said, I came back from a vacation of two weeks. Basically I would be able to run the tournament since I'm here. But something happened that we could not have foreseen at the tournament start. Due to RL stuff I won't be here for another 10 days. Therefore both organizers won't be here. I will however be able to run this when I get back. I may also come online a few times during this 'brb' period.

So what now you ask. I've thought about this and we have the following options:
- Extend round 2.. again
- Disqualify NE and Shadow and post round 3 deadline and matches
- Give NE and Shadow another chance to play until round 3 deadline, minus one day obviously. The winner would have to play the day after for round 3.

I think the third option would be the best. I will probably do that later on (in like 3-5 hours), but I'd like to see some input from the people here on the situation and the options. Please post them here.

If they want to play, then they should. But I have the feeling they're not motivated to try again. Then it's up to you to discuss with them what to do, IMO, or you just take a decision based on what you can read on NE-forums.

Definitely not #1. Some of us want to play again and not wait for some people because they can't set up a date and show up.

I would choose for option 3.
If that not happens, I agree with Gozy, see below.

I think we all accept your choice as it is in the interest of going forward with this tourney.

(and thx for trying to give this a chance.)
