why does everyone call the chem warrior the "chem trooper"? it's always been the Chem Warrior. the word "trooper" has never been used to officially describe this unit.

answer me.

my best guess relates to the Ordos Chemical Trooper from E:BFD.

As for the chem "trooper", who cares? A trooper is essentially a warrior.

Man, you're right. Starting today, I'm going to stop paying taxes and start generating my own electricity, pumping my own water, growing my own food, paving my own roads, printing my own money, homeschooling my own kids and stockpiling automatic weapons to defend myself with. That makes MUCH more sense than paying taxes.

No way for me to be sure but...

It would be my assumption that at one point in time it was called the chem trooper, then EA/Westwood renamed it and were too lazy to rename everything, so people that have been in the .dat files and stuff probably picked up "Trooper" from there.

That shouldn't be too hard. Under his kingship there would be no taxes and therefore no military, so everyone would have to have guns and drive tanks in order to defend themselves.
