A modified version of the original cross-hair.

It's the same basic design, it just doesn't look as boring.

So you're the one driving me all around like a drunken captain?

Next time, watch for the zerg on the starboard.[/SPAM]

What do you mean by "corsair"[/ON TOPIC]

Wait, I'm confused. Did he change the topic title or am I just that dyslexic?

I do believe he is talking about hats. Stylish though they may be, they're not quite my cup of tea. I prefer fedoras.

I use my corsairs in groups of six or more. Otherwise they're vulnerable to scourge snipes or mass mutalisks. Also, in smaller numbers they take too long to hunt scouting overlords.

Fucking HATE scourge sniping, I'd rather face 7 zeusdamn Terran players than have to deal with that shit.

I'd rather play Minesweeper. It's got better graphics.

Gameplay beats graphics any day of the week, in my opinion

Hmmm...Corsairs don't have much of a place in PvT. Most Stargate tech doesn't, unless you want to doom yourself to failure by getting carriers, or the game has been going on for way too long and you're getting Arbiters. Although, if you're getting Arbiters anyway, you might as well get corsairs for the Disruption Web, especially since Terran Siege Tanks take forever to move out of the AoE, playing Terran requires holding a good position anyway. Must experiment further.

'cept when the graphics technology used is so old that it flat out refuses to run on a modern computer half the time, and is utterly unplayable the other half due to the amazing screen resolution of 640x480 (which just so happens to be only a few inches big on my display)

If the joke wasn't "Starcraft has fail graphics" then yes it did.
