

---

Subject: Gaming mice and renegade

Posted by reborn on Fri, 20 Nov 2009 10:53:38 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

After seeing Orca's (the guy) video's of general ownage, I decided to give the whole 'free-aim' shooting a try. I think with practise I could get used to it and make me better. However, to make it ergonomical I used the 'right-click' as my 'free-aim' button.

This became annoying because it meant secondary fire had to be assigned to something else.

The whole attempt started to feel very counter-intuitive, so for Christmas I am going to ask my wife for a new gaming mouse, specifically for the reason of the extra buttons.

Can anyone recomend a mouse that is ergonomically designed, NOT wireless, has extra buttons so that I can easily use my thumb for the 'free-aim' button, has good precision, and possibly something cool like the ability to write marco's for it?

I was thinking of this:

http://www.gigabyte.com.tw/Products/Mouse/Products\_Overview.aspx?ProductID=2944

Any thoughts?

---

---

Subject: Re: Gaming mice and renegade

Posted by EvilWhiteDragon on Fri, 20 Nov 2009 11:02:48 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Razer Mamba, wireless when you want it, wired when you don't want it. It is however a bit expensive I considered buying it, but am planning on replacing my Ati HD4870 1GB for a Ati HD5870 first.

---

---

Subject: Re: Gaming mice and renegade

Posted by Goztow on Fri, 20 Nov 2009 14:00:54 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

The Logitech G5 is still one of the best gaming mice out there and has seriously dropped in price. I've been using mine for the last 3 years or so. It's truly a great thing!

---

---

Subject: Re: Gaming mice and renegade

Posted by Spyder on Fri, 20 Nov 2009 14:17:02 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Try a Saitek Cyborg Mouse. It has a side-hat with programmable buttons.

---

---

Subject: Re: Gaming mice and renegade

---

Posted by Stefan on Fri, 20 Nov 2009 14:52:20 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

If you want something really accurate, you'd have to go for a drawing tablet such as the wacom intuos

It kicks major ass when it comes to headshotting in FPS games.

---

---

Subject: Re: Gaming mice and renegade

Posted by Omar007 on Fri, 20 Nov 2009 15:38:41 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Goztow wrote on Fri, 20 November 2009 15:00The Logitech G5 is still one of the best gaming mice out there and has seriously dropped in price. I've been using mine for the last 3 years or so. It's truly a great thing!

I have this one too. It's really great

---

---

Subject: Re: Gaming mice and renegade

Posted by JohnDoe on Fri, 20 Nov 2009 15:51:44 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

You're asking the wrong people.

1. Free aiming sucks, it makes you predictable and isn't useful unless you're trying to shoot something you aren't supposed to see. A new mouse/gaming surface combo could improve your aim, with or without free aiming.
2. What's your mouse grip?
3. What's your gaming surface?
4. What's your sensitivity?
5. What resolution to you play on?
6. What were your experiences with other mice?

Those are the question you need to answer first, before anyone can give you credible advice. This thread is just idiots either picking the most expensive mouse or a mouse they personally liked, but which might not suit you at all. For example, the Razor Mamba is an overpriced POS unless you're gaming on a 50" plasma. 120$ for something the same shape as the Deathadder (50$) with an option for wireless (which you and most people don't need) and a laser sensor (doesn't track properly on a number of surfaces) with 5600 dpi (as opposed to 3500 dpi from the DA's optical sensor, already more than anyone needs). Most of the top Counter-Strike players still use discontinued 20$ Microsoft Intellimice with 800 dpi for their shape alone...choosing the right mouse has nothing to do with how much you pay. As a general rule, I would only stick to Microsoft, Logitech and Razer as they have been battle-tested.

---

---

Subject: Re: Gaming mice and renegade
Posted by ChewML on Fri, 20 Nov 2009 16:19:25 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

JohnDoe is right, everyone else is wrong and a philistine faggot for thinking otherwise...

I personally use the Microsoft Comfort Optical Mouse 3000. It has a good feel and just one extra button perfectly under my thumb. It is not expensive or overly fancy, just a good mouse IMO.

---

---

Subject: Re: Gaming mice and renegade
Posted by Omar007 on Fri, 20 Nov 2009 16:31:32 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Hmm i only bought the G5 because i considered all of the points JohnDoe said. It's true Reborn didnt told us his answers onthese but i tried my G5 on alot of surfaces and it worked great (glass not so much though )

Also you can change the sensitivity of the G5 from 400*400 to 2000*2000 and all between, possible to have 5 options pre-set

---

---

Subject: Re: Gaming mice and renegade
Posted by JohnDoe on Fri, 20 Nov 2009 18:30:00 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Chew wrote on Fri, 20 November 2009 10:19JohnDoe is right, everyone else is wrong and a philistine faggot for thinking otherwise...

I personally use the Microsoft Comfort Optical Mouse 3000. It has a good feel and just one extra button perfectly under my thumb. It is not expensive or overly fancy, just a good mouse IMO.

Just good useless advice you provided right there. Thanks.

---

---

Subject: Re: Gaming mice and renegade
Posted by Wiener on Fri, 20 Nov 2009 18:45:52 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

I'm one of those gamers who believe that the harder you push a button the faster you run and the better you shoot

I tried razor and had to realize that it was lousy hardware especially for the price you pay (killed the mouse within 3 month.. got a new as replacement which survived 6 month). I'm now with logitech for almost 2 years and its still working

---

---

Subject: Re: Gaming mice and renegade
Posted by JohnDoe on Fri, 20 Nov 2009 19:50:41 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Strange, Razer Salmosa is easily the best mouse I've ever had and it cost 25$.

---

Subject: Re: Gaming mice and renegade
Posted by Lone0001 on Fri, 20 Nov 2009 20:40:56 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

If you want an excellent Wireless mouse I would recommend the Logitech MX620, mine has been running for months without replacing the batteries. At the moment I'm using the right button for free aim and the small button to the far left for my secondary fire.

If not then I would agree with Goztow, the Logitech G5 would be a good mouse.

---

Subject: Re: Gaming mice and renegade
Posted by ChewML on Sat, 21 Nov 2009 00:07:50 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

JohnDoe wrote on Fri, 20 November 2009 13:30Chew wrote on Fri, 20 November 2009 10:19JohnDoe is right, everyone else is wrong and a philistine faggot for thinking otherwise...

I personally use the Microsoft Comfort Optical Mouse 3000. It has a good feel and just one extra button perfectly under my thumb. It is not expensive or overly fancy, just a good mouse IMO.

Just good useless advice you provided right there. Thanks.
How is that useless advice? Is it because it did not come from you?

OP asked for recommendations for mice with extra buttons that could be used for free aim... I in turn replied and said the mouse I use for the very same reason.

IMO, your advice is worthless as it is not answering the inquiry OP put forth... all you have done is try to insult everyone else, which is all you ever seem to do.

---

Subject: Re: Gaming mice and renegade
Posted by Homey on Sat, 21 Nov 2009 08:01:35 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Actually he listed 6 very good questions about which mouse to choose, something no one else offered. Most people will vouch for the things they own, which all in all doesn't offer much. With that being said, all of the suggested mice are good choices.

---

---

Subject: Re: Gaming mice and renegade
Posted by JohnDoe on Sat, 21 Nov 2009 09:42:26 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Chew wrote on Fri, 20 November 2009 18:07JohnDoe wrote on Fri, 20 November 2009 13:30Chew wrote on Fri, 20 November 2009 10:19JohnDoe is right, everyone else is wrong and a philistine faggot for thinking otherwise...

I personally use the Microsoft Comfort Optical Mouse 3000. It has a good feel and just one extra button perfectly under my thumb. It is not expensive or overly fancy, just a good mouse IMO.

Just good useless advice you provided right there. Thanks.
How is that useless advice? Is it because it did not come from you?

OP asked for recommendations for mice with extra buttons that could be used for free aim... I in turn replied and said the mouse I use for the very same reason.

IMO, your advice is worthless as it is not answering the inquiry OP put forth... all you have done is try to insult everyone else, which is all you ever seem to do.

Look, I wouldn't recommend a Prada suit to Dover - it's great quality and might look great on yours truly, but the slim/tall cut just doesn't mix well with Dover's portly physique.

If you can understand the analogy, then you will realize that I'm the only one who provided useful advice thus far and the guy that recommended a 120$ mouse is the real asshole. It's no coincidence that the only other person in this thread to kick ass at Renegade is backing me.

---

---

Subject: Re: Gaming mice and renegade
Posted by archerman on Sat, 21 Nov 2009 11:33:19 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Goztow wrote on Fri, 20 November 2009 16:00The Logitech G5 is still one of the best gaming mice out there and has seriously dropped in price. I've been using mine for the last 3 years or so. It's truly a great thing!
programming the buttons can be a problem sometimes, but it's a very good mouse indeed.

---

---

Subject: Re: Gaming mice and renegade
Posted by Wiener on Sat, 21 Nov 2009 13:10:54 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

never had ANY problems with logitech's setpoint on any game

---

---

Subject: Re: Gaming mice and renegade
Posted by -Xv- on Sun, 22 Nov 2009 13:52:03 GMT

---

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Goztow wrote on Fri, 20 November 2009 09:00The Logitech G5 is still one of the best gaming mice out there and has seriously dropped in price. I've been using mine for the last 3 years or so. It's truly a great thing!

The mouse you have @ the link looks nice, I haven't had the opportunity to try it yet. However, I have tried a few different mice, including razors (breaks easy) and microsoft (not as comfortable) and I have to say;

Logitech G5 all the way. I had mine for about a year. Still as good as new. Dirt doesn't stick to it like most mice, VERY sturdy, even the cable covering is made of some mesh, so it is resistant to breakage and pulling. 7 usable in-game buttons (+2 sensitivity, can change it on the fly) and the price tag is very nice. I got mine for $35. You can't go wrong with it.

If you have a medium to big hand you will also love its design. I can't recommend this mouse enough.

@JohnDoe -

- 1) Free aim is very useful and every rene "pro" uses it. Wonder why. Just because you can't use it, doesn't mean its useless, such as the point you made of it.
  - 2) The design of the G5 fits most peoples hands very nicely, read some reviews.
  - 3)The surface for laser (note; NOT optical) mice doesn't really matter, its accurate on almost any surface. Useless point.
  - 4)can change sensitivity on the fly, or can set your sensitivity precisely. Can make it very responsive or unresponsive. (400 to 2000 DPI, and everything in between) Then again, most quality mice can do this. Another useless point imo.
  - 5)I don't see what resolution has to do with anything.
  - 6)He is probably using your average, everyday optical mouse. The G5, being extremely cheap nowadays, is a very good buy, even if to just experience the difference a quality mouse offers over an optical. If he doesn't like it, every electronics store that I know, has return policies, even if for just credit.
-

---

Subject: Re: Gaming mice and renegade
Posted by Jamie or NuneGa on Sun, 22 Nov 2009 14:36:43 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

I use the mouse that came with my computer...

you don't need a fancy mouse for ren just bind free aim to middle mouse and your done.

---

---

Subject: Re: Gaming mice and renegade
Posted by reborn on Sun, 22 Nov 2009 14:39:49 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Nune wrote on Sun, 22 November 2009 09:36 I use the mouse that came with my computer...

you don't need a fancy mouse for ren just bind free aim to middle mouse and your done.

I use that for 'push to talk' in team speak, it would annoy the other people in TS.
Plus, it's kinda awkward for my long fingers to do it like that.

---

---

Subject: Re: Gaming mice and renegade
Posted by JohnDoe on Sun, 22 Nov 2009 17:19:31 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

-Xv- wrote on Sun, 22 November 2009 07:52
@JohnDoe -

- 1) Free aim is very useful and every rene "pro" uses it. Wonder why. Just because you can't use it, doesn't mean its useless, such as the point you made of it.
- 2) The design of the G5 fits most peoples hands very nicely, read some reviews.
- 3) The surface for laser (note; NOT optical) mice doesn't really matter, its accurate on almost any surface. Useless point.
- 4) can change sensitivity on the fly, or can set your sensitivity precisely. Can make it very responsive or unresponsive. (400 to 2000 DPI, and everything in between) Then again, most quality mice can do this. Another useless point imo.
- 5) I don't see what resolution has to do with anything.
- 6) He is probably using your average, everyday optical mouse. The G5, being extremely cheap nowadays, is a very good buy, even if to just experience the difference a quality mouse offers over an optical. If he doesn't like it, every electronics store that I know, has return policies, even if for just credit.

1. You have no idea who I am, no elite player uses free aim constantly - but how would you know? Canada only produced 3 pros (Homey, aZ and GotWiskey) and you're neither of them, you're just a random n00b.
2. The design of the G5 is terrible for my needs. I play with a fingertip grip (despite having large hands) and prefer the weight distribution of a symmetrical mouse and a flatter shape. You obviously have no idea what I'm talking about here as these thoughts never even crossed your mind when stupidly buying whatever felt nice in some reviewer's hand.
3. I use the Steelseries I-1 and a laser mouse will NOT track on it. There have been issues throughout the years with laser sensors, which is why the pros in CS and other FPS all use optical mice - take your own advice and read some reviews.
4. No pro will ever change sensitivity on the fly. Every second counts, so having to press another button before firing a weapon is the dumbest thing I can think of. What pros will do is assign custom sensitivity settings for each weapon.
5. Part 5 of you demonstrating how little you know about competitive gaming and mice. What do you think will happen when when the same sensor setting has to cover 1920 pixels instead of 600 pixels? In which case will you cover more of the screen with 1 swipe of the wrist?
6. So you want him to buy every mouse and return it before he finds the right one? More useful advice for this thread I guess...

Reborn, I'm willing to provide you with personalized "pro" advice, but if you don't bother to reply to my list, suit yourself.

---

---

Subject: Re: Gaming mice and renegade
Posted by Herr Surth on Sun, 22 Nov 2009 17:31:15 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

did you ever play anything (except renegade) on a prolevel or why do you happen to have a steelseries?

just curious.

---

---

Subject: Re: Gaming mice and renegade
Posted by ChewML on Sun, 22 Nov 2009 18:23:56 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

JohnDoe is the God of Renegade... if you use free aim you are a retarded noob and suck.

You stupid arrogant ass, it is a preference... obviously not yours, but a lot of other people share it.

---

---

Subject: Re: Gaming mice and renegade
Posted by JohnDoe on Sun, 22 Nov 2009 18:41:06 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

surth? / surth! wrote on Sun, 22 November 2009 11:31did you ever play anything (except renegade) on a prolevel or why do you happen to have a steelseries?

just curious.

Enemy Territory semi-pro level (sponsored server, couple pieces of hardware, no connection to Steelseries)

Chew wrote on Sun, 22 November 2009 12:23JohnDoe is the God of Renegade... if you use free aim you are a retarded noob and suck.

You stupid arrogant ass, it is a preference... obviously not yours, but a lot of other people share it.

---

Yes, it's a preference, but not an advantage. QQ more..

---

---

Subject: Re: Gaming mice and renegade
Posted by ChewML on Sun, 22 Nov 2009 19:05:33 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

JohnDoe wrote on Sun, 22 November 2009 12:41Chew wrote on Sun, 22 November 2009 12:23JohnDoe is the God of Renegade... if you use free aim you are a retarded noob and suck.

You stupid arrogant ass, it is a preference... obviously not yours, but a lot of other people share it.

Yes, it's a preference, but not an advantage. QQ more..

There was obviously a reason for them to add that to the game... a lot of people use it and do better (not just hugging either). And no QQ'ing just stating that you are a douche, and rather annoying with your opinions that you post as facts.

---

---

Subject: Re: Gaming mice and renegade
Posted by Herr Surth on Sun, 22 Nov 2009 19:24:34 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

I use it, but then again my pistoling is awful

---

---

Subject: Re: Gaming mice and renegade
Posted by JohnDoe on Sun, 22 Nov 2009 21:09:31 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Chew wrote on Sun, 22 November 2009 13:05JohnDoe wrote on Sun, 22 November 2009 12:41Chew wrote on Sun, 22 November 2009 12:23JohnDoe is the God of Renegade... if you use free aim you are a retarded noob and suck.

You stupid arrogant ass, it is a preference... obviously not yours, but a lot of other people share it.

Yes, it's a preference, but not an advantage. QQ more..

There was obviously a reason for them to add that to the game... a lot of people use it and do better (not just hugging either). And no QQ'ing just stating that you are a douche, and rather annoying with your opinions that you post as facts.

Yes, and I'm sure there was a reason to add the walk-feature and the tibsdney as well...stfu. If the top tier of players doesn't need it, then neither do you. It's like first person view...helpful in a few situations, but most of the time there is a better alternative.

---

---

Subject: Re: Gaming mice and renegade
Posted by ChewML on Sun, 22 Nov 2009 21:57:18 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

JohnDoe wrote on Sun, 22 November 2009 15:09Chew wrote on Sun, 22 November 2009 13:05JohnDoe wrote on Sun, 22 November 2009 12:41Chew wrote on Sun, 22 November 2009 12:23JohnDoe is the God of Renegade... if you use free aim you are a retarded noob and suck.

You stupid arrogant ass, it is a preference... obviously not yours, but a lot of other people share it.

Yes, it's a preference, but not an advantage. QQ more..

There was obviously a reason for them to add that to the game... a lot of people use it and do better (not just hugging either). And no QQ'ing just stating that you are a douche, and rather annoying with your opinions that you post as facts.

Yes, and I'm sure there was a reason to add the walk-feature and the tibsdney as well...stfu. If the top tier of players doesn't need it, then neither do you. It's like first person view...helpful in a few situations, but most of the time there is a better alternative.

LOL... A lot of people use walking also while sniping (not just for RGH). Tiberium Sidney is a cheap character that comes in handy when you are short on creds (possible made to just take up a spot in character list). First person is good for sniping over or around obstacles. And last but surely not least a lot of the best snipers use free aim in open areas.

It don't matter if YOU don't use/need it, it works very well for a lot of other people. I don't feel the need to tickle my asshole when I rub one out, but maybe it works better for you. You sir are retarded and should take your own advice and "stfu"...

---

---

Subject: Re: Gaming mice and renegade
Posted by ErroR on Sun, 22 Nov 2009 22:45:48 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Chew wrote on Sun, 22 November 2009 23:57JohnDoe wrote on Sun, 22 November 2009 15:09Chew wrote on Sun, 22 November 2009 13:05JohnDoe wrote on Sun, 22 November 2009 12:41Chew wrote on Sun, 22 November 2009 12:23JohnDoe is the God of Renegade... if you use free aim you are a retarded noob and suck.

You stupid arrogant ass, it is a preference... obviously not yours, but a lot of other people share it.

Yes, it's a preference, but not an advantage. QQ more..

There was obviously a reason for them to add that to the game... a lot of people use it and do better (not just hugging either). And no QQ'ing just stating that you are a douche, and rather annoying with your opinions that you post as facts.

Yes, and I'm sure there was a reason to add the walk-feature and the tibsdney as well...stfu. If the top tier of players doesn't need it, then neither do you. It's like first person view...helpful in a few situations, but most of the time there is a better alternative.

LOL... A lot of people use walking also while sniping (not just for RGH). Tiberium Sidney is a cheap character that comes in handy when you are short on creds (possible made to just take up a spot in character list). First person is good for sniping over or around obstacles. And last but surely not least a lot of the best snipers use free aim in open areas.

It don't matter if YOU don't use/need it, it works very well for a lot of other people. I don't feel the need to tickle my asshole when I rub one out, but maybe it works better for you. You sir are retarded and should take your own advice and "stfu"...

i think that they wanted to use all weapons in mp just didn't have the appropriate char.. so they used sydney

---

Subject: Re: Gaming mice and renegade
Posted by JohnDoe on Sun, 22 Nov 2009 23:32:47 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Chew wrote on Sun, 22 November 2009 15:57Most people make a lot of stupid mistakes in Renegade, so I better repeat them.

ITT: n00b schooling pro on Renegade

Walking while sniping is retarded, you're easily better off crouching. I can't remember any good clan using a tibsdney except for joking around in all the years I've played. The top snipers that excessively use free aim all suck at aow, in part because their excessive use of free aim makes them predictable and less aware of their surroundings. Do you have any credentials to justify your strong opinions? I won the clanwars sniping tournament and the only elite sniper to beat me most of the time was chiknh8er (who I've been told might've been cheating).

---

---

Subject: Re: Gaming mice and renegade
Posted by -Xv- on Mon, 23 Nov 2009 00:19:40 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

JohnDoe wrote on Sun, 22 November 2009 12:19-Xv- wrote on Sun, 22 November 2009 07:52
@JohnDoe -

- 1) Free aim is very useful and every rene "pro" uses it. Wonder why. Just because you can't use it, doesn't mean its useless, such as the point you made of it.
- 2) The design of the G5 fits most peoples hands very nicely, read some reviews.
- 3)The surface for laser (note; NOT optical) mice doesn't really matter, its accurate on almost any surface. Useless point.
- 4)can change sensitivity on the fly, or can set your sensitivity precisely. Can make it very responsive or unresponsive. (400 to 2000 DPI, and everything in between) Then again, most quality mice can do this. Another useless point imo.
- 5)I don't see what resolution has to do with anything.
- 6)He is probably using your average, everyday optical mouse. The G5, being extremely cheap nowadays, is a very good buy, even if to just experience the difference a quality mouse offers over an optical. If he doesn't like it, every electronics store that I know, has return policies, even if for just credit.

1. You have no idea who I am, no elite player uses free aim constantly - but how would you know? Canada only produced 3 pros (Homey, aZ and GotWiskey) and you're neither of them, you're just a random n00b.
2. The design of the G5 is terrible for my needs. I play with a fingertip grip (despite having large hands) and prefer the weight distribution of a symmetrical mouse and a flatter shape. You obviously have no idea what I'm talking about here as these thoughts never even crossed your mind when stupidly buying whatever felt nice in some reviewer's hand.
3. I use the Steelseries I-1 and a laser mouse will NOT track on it. There have been issues throughout the years with laser sensors, which is why the pros in CS and other FPS all use optical mice - take your own advice and read some reviews.
4. No pro will ever change sensitivity on the fly. Every second counts, so having to press another button before firing a weapon is the dumbest thing I can think of. What pros will do is assign custom sensitivity settings for each weapon.
5. Part 5 of you demonstrating how little you know about competitive gaming and mice. What do you think will happen when when the same sensor setting has to cover 1920 pixels instead of 600 pixels? In which case will you cover more of the screen with 1 swipe of the wrist?
6. So you want him to buy every mouse and return it before he finds the right one? More useful advice for this thread I guess...

Reborn, I'm willing to provide you with personalized "pro" advice, but if you don't bother to reply to my list, suit yourself.

1) I don't use it constantly, especially not in aow, but it definitely has its use, and isn't completely useless, as you claim it to be. I am also better than most people believe me to be. I have beaten "lesser" cw players in 1v1 countless times, just because they felt like talking shit, thinking they are all that. Now, of course I'm not claiming that right now I can just go up to you or whiskey and expect to not lose, but I also haven't played cws in years. ( And since I'm such a n00b I guess it would surprise you that chicnkh8r always came to me to get better. I basically trained him, if you can call it that. lol.)

2) I understand that some people can't stand the feel of ergonomic mice like the G5 or MX518 (usually those with smaller hands or mouse grips that don't involve resting the palm on the mouse), while others just can't come to grips with smaller ones. It's all about how you feel when you hold the mouse.

3) I actually have a steelseries QcK myself. But I have used mice on a variety of surfaces (while on the laptop) and the G5 hasn't failed me yet, be it an uneven wooden shelf or a blanket.

4) I was just saying that changing sensitivity is very easy on the G5, and just the fact that it can be changed on a huge scale makes your point on the resolution very moot imo. You set the sensitivity to whatever feels best for you, on whatever resolution you play in, with whatever weapon you are using, etc..

5) see 4

6) I still think it's easier to try a G5 (v2), with its low price tag, and its widely acclaimed reception, than to buy something horribly expensive just to not like it after using it for a week.

In the end it all comes down to personal preference and opinions. Everyone is different. But he did ask us for our thoughts on the matter, now didn't he.

@ reborn

Head over to your local computer/tech store and play around with a few models they have on display. That way you can at least get an idea of what sort of shape, button placement, weight, etc. you prefer, and go from there.

---

Subject: Re: Gaming mice and renegade
Posted by ChewML on Mon, 23 Nov 2009 01:04:26 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

LMAO... e-credentials... are you serious?

What I can tell you is free aim works for me, I am still decent at AOW... and my mouse is awesome for the price ($25).

---

---

Subject: Re: Gaming mice and renegade
Posted by JohnDoe on Mon, 23 Nov 2009 08:56:33 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

-Xv- wrote on Sun, 22 November 2009 18:19JohnDoe wrote on Sun, 22 November 2009 12:19-Xv- wrote on Sun, 22 November 2009 07:52
@JohnDoe -

- 1) Free aim is very useful and every rene "pro" uses it. Wonder why. Just because you can't use it, doesn't mean its useless, such as the point you made of it.
- 2) The design of the G5 fits most peoples hands very nicely, read some reviews.
- 3)The surface for laser (note; NOT optical) mice doesn't really matter, its accurate on almost any surface. Useless point.
- 4)can change sensitivity on the fly, or can set your sensitivity precisely. Can make it very responsive or unresponsive. (400 to 2000 DPI, and everything in between) Then again, most quality mice can do this. Another useless point imo.
- 5)I don't see what resolution has to do with anything.
- 6)He is probably using your average, everyday optical mouse. The G5, being extremely cheap nowadays, is a very good buy, even if to just experience the difference a quality mouse offers over an optical. If he doesn't like it, every electronics store that I know, has return policies, even if for just credit.

1. You have no idea who I am, no elite player uses free aim constantly - but how would you know? Canada only produced 3 pros (Homey, aZ and GotWiskey) and you're neither of them, you're just a random n00b.
2. The design of the G5 is terrible for my needs. I play with a fingertip grip (despite having large hands) and prefer the weight distribution of a symmetrical mouse and a flatter shape. You obviously have no idea what I'm talking about here as these thoughts never even crossed your mind when stupidly buying whatever felt nice in some reviewer's hand.
3. I use the Steelseries I-1 and a laser mouse will NOT track on it. There have been issues throughout the years with laser sensors, which is why the pros in CS and other FPS all use optical mice - take your own advice and read some reviews.
4. No pro will ever change sensitivity on the fly. Every second counts, so having to press another button before firing a weapon is the dumbest thing I can think of. What pros will do is assign custom sensitivity settings for each weapon.
5. Part 5 of you demonstrating how little you know about competitive gaming and mice. What do you think will happen when when the same sensor setting has to cover 1920 pixels instead of 600 pixels? In which case will you cover more of the screen with 1 swipe of the wrist?
6. So you want him to buy every mouse and return it before he finds the right one? More useful advice for this thread I guess...

Reborn, I'm willing to provide you with personalized "pro" advice, but if you don't bother to reply to my list, suit yourself.

1) I don't use it constantly, especially not in aow, but it definitely has its use, and isn't completely useless, as you claim it to be. I am also better than most people believe me to be. I have beaten "lesser" cw players in 1v1 countless times, just because they felt like talking shit, thinking they are all that. Now, of course I'm not claiming that right now I can just go up to you or whiskey and expect to not lose, but I also haven't played cws in years. ( And since I'm such a n00b I guess it would surprise you that chicnkh8r always came to me to get better. I basically trained him, if you can call it that. lol.)

2) I understand that some people can't stand the feel of ergonomic mice like the G5 or MX518 (usually those with smaller hands or mouse grips that don't involve resting the palm on the mouse), while others just can't come to grips with smaller ones. It's all about how you feel when you hold the mouse.

3) I actually have a steelseries QcK myself. But I have used mice on a variety of surfaces (while on the laptop) and the G5 hasn't failed me yet, be it an uneven wooden shelf or a blanket.

4) I was just saying that changing sensitivity is very easy on the G5, and just the fact that it can be changed on a huge scale makes your point on the resolution very moot imo. You set the sensitivity to whatever feels best for you, on whatever resolution you play in, with whatever weapon you are using, etc..

5) see 4

6) I still think its easier to try a G5 (v2), with its low price tag, and its widely acclaimed reception, then to buy something horribly expensive just to not like it after using it for a week.

In the end it all comes down to personal preference and opinions. Everyone is different. But he did ask us for our thoughts on the matter, now didn't he.

@ reborn

Head over to your local computer/tech store and play around with a few models they have on display. That way you can at least get an idea of what sort of shape, button placement, weight, etc. you prefer, and go from there.

I never claimed it was entirely useless...it's only useless if you use it exclusively like the guy in that video Reborn is trying to emulate. In case you didn't watch it, it was some guy taking on average 2 clips to pistol engineers walking in straight lines while using extremely predictable movement himself - for some reason the people here think he's god.

The rest of the post just underlines how different preferences in mice can be and why my initial post makes more sense than every other advice. My mouse only has 1800 dpi, which will be a problem to someone playing on a 24" display with high sens.

I remember your nickname tho, at least you're a top tunnel sniper and know a thing or two about aiming (unlike that QQing Chew dipshit). So was Chikn ever busted or suspected of anything? I remember wrs telling me that, but he never seemed like a cheater to me and was good before all of the really slick cheats came out. The only thing odd about his style was that his movement was pretty simple while his accuracy was unlike anyone I've ever encountered.

Chew, we've established that you don't know shit about Renegade or mice, so yes, if someone wants to get better, they shouldn't ask a n00b for advice, but someone with e-credentials.

---

---

Subject: Re: Gaming mice and renegade
Posted by SSADMVR on Mon, 23 Nov 2009 09:17:33 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

I don't think chicknh8r cheated, he was awesome before RGH, but then again, that doesn't prove anything either.

---

---

Subject: Re: Gaming mice and renegade
Posted by -Xv- on Mon, 23 Nov 2009 11:08:19 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

JohnDoe wrote on Mon, 23 November 2009 03:56 So was Chikn ever busted or suspected of anything? I remember wrs telling me that, but he never seemed like a cheater to me and was good before all of the really slick cheats came out. The only thing odd about his style was that his movement was pretty simple while his accuracy was unlike anyone I've ever encountered.

some say he was busted, I never seen any hard evidence of it myself. I was pretty cool with the guy and what I've known of him, I don't think he would've cheated. I get accused to this day by some pretty oldschool and hardcore players, saying I've just been slipping by like MaKa, but come on, for 7 years? lol.

Tunnel ratting isn't my only strenght.. I actually prefer the old-school way when tunnels were actually blocked lol.

we should get some aow funwars in, I haven't seen you in-game in a while, (smurfs don't count ^_^)

---

---

Subject: Re: Gaming mice and renegade
Posted by JohnDoe on Mon, 23 Nov 2009 13:39:36 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

I stopped playing about 2 years ago...Renegade doesn't run on Macbooks, but I'll get a few games in over the holidays. Are the sniping servers relatively cheat free? I guess it's easier to get rid of the cheaters as it's a smaller group. One of the reasons I quit was because clanwars basically died and messing around on public servers became less fun with 10% RGHers ruining every slick shit you try to pull and going for MVP has always been too easy and boring.

---

Subject: Re: Gaming mice and renegade
Posted by -Xv- on Mon, 23 Nov 2009 13:56:37 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

JohnDoe wrote on Mon, 23 November 2009 08:39I stopped playing about 2 years ago...Renegade doesn't run on Macbooks, but I'll get a few games in over the holidays. Are the sniping servers relatively cheat free? I guess it's easier to get rid of the cheaters as it's a smaller group. One of the reasons I quit was because clanwars basically died and messing around on public servers became less fun with 10% RGHers ruining every slick shit you try to pull and going for MVP has always been too easy and boring.

Today's server side bots with scripts and all that shit catch most cheats, and those that do slip by from time to time are caught within the same game (too obvious now a days). This 'resurrection' of clanwars is actually working out, many games are played daily. Definitely needs more people though. Try goin' for MVP vs today's top players, you won't find it easy. Still lots of retards on pubs though

---

Subject: Re: Gaming mice and renegade
Posted by JohnDoe on Mon, 23 Nov 2009 16:33:34 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Do they still use that retarded no reload shit? Whoever thought of that will die of cervical cancer. Let's just take out the tactical element of timing reloads...tunnelsniping is too complicated!!!11

---

Subject: Re: Gaming mice and renegade
Posted by EvilWhiteDragon on Mon, 23 Nov 2009 20:38:33 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

JohnDoe wrote on Mon, 23 November 2009 17:33Do they still use that retarded no reload shit? Whoever thought of that will die of cervical cancer. Let's just take out the tactical element of timing reloads...tunnelsniping is too complicated!!!11

I know that the BI/TK2 Sniper server DOES have reloads and such. As plain as possible.

---