Finally got a 360 and am planning to buy a few games which include:

Fallout 3

Elder Scrolls 4: Oblivion

Halo 3

Halo 3 ODST

Farcry 2

I'd want suggestions on other games

Gta4 is a must

NHL 10 and gears of war 2 are pretty sweet too.

TF2 is better on the PC.

also, the modern warfare series is a piece of overrated shit.

As for games I actually suggest... well, you have most of them, but GTAIV is also a good choice if you don't have it for PC already.

I dunno, there aren't many games on consoles that fare better than their PC equivalents

Yeah, depends what you like... 360 only really has shooters going for it, all the rest are multiplatform... PS3 has a good selection of RPG's, but judging by your selection that's not what you're into.

You have a pretty good collection already.

Along with GTA4, you should really check out Episodes from Liberty City. I haven't played them yet, but they seem promising, and the Gay Tony expansion looks like it adds what GTA4 should have been in the first place.

Stay away from MW2. That game is the most broke piece of fucking shit ever. They have patched a couple of things, but there is something called viral hacking, which means some users have hacked the code and it gets onto your system's cache when you play a game with them. In addition, you have camping and over powered guns and kill streaks up your fucking ass.

Get Bad Company 2 when it comes out in March.

I'm not resorting to anything, just pointing out what you're doing. The game is what it is. You might say it's overpowered, but who the hell are you? It won't conform to you, so either you can conform to it or you can shut the fuck up.

That, or the ability to attach chainsaw bayonets to your weapons. Atleast Gears of War had that... granted, that's totally a WH40k copy, but at this point, what HASN'T copied WH40k?

Dover wrote on Thu, 31 December 2009 01:38 I'm not resorting to anything, just pointing out what you're doing. The game is what it is. You might say it's overpowered, but who the hell are you? It won't conform to you, so either you can conform to it or you can shut the fuck up.

If there's a gun that can kill people in one fucking hit, you don't have to aim, and it has a splash radius... yes, it's overpowered. There's such a thing as imbalance in multiplayer vidyagames, believe it or not.

To put it into a perspective you'd understand, imagine if Carriers in StarCraft could instantly build all of their aircraft, cost 50 resources to build and no crystal or vespene, and had 2x the health they have now.

Should you then just have to conform to it? No, it should be patched, because that disrupts balance.

Yes, at times, people bitch about shit so it'd be easier for them (which I'm sure is what you're implying), but generally speaking, there's a point when something is too overpowered. And it's annoying, and makes it rather unenjoyable to play.

I can see that you haven't even played it. The developer has the responsibility to design levels where there aren't a million places to hide, and I mean that almost literally. They also have the responsibility to balance out the weapons, kill streaks, and perks. All this bullshit they put into it, to please the casual fucks, really makes the game unenjoyable to the real gamer.

You can say all the shit you want, but I do NOT need to conform to a poorly designed game. Call of Duty 4 was just fine, but they obviously changed the way they make games. You can claim that the game is fine, but obviously there's no getting through to you, since you seem to think you know what you're talking about.

You say two opposing things here. On one hand, you claim that MW2 is more casual-friendly, and this adversely affects the game. On the other hand, you complain about powerful guns and camping, putting you right at the level of everyone who gets their ass kicked at Counter-Strike. Scrubs like you have been complaining about camping since before the internet began, and I'm sure whatever weapon it is you hate so much is probably analogous to the AWP (Which, for the record, isn't overpowered. If it was, then CS wouldn't have the vibrant competitive community it does).

The proper response to you and your kind is always the same; deal with it or shut up.

They made the game easier for casuals by making guns super deadly, which in combination with a heart beat sensor, campers are unstoppable, and putting camping spots everywhere. Now, I know there's camping in every FPS, but what you don't get is that's all the game is. Not to mention they left stopping power in the damn game, but there's no juggy. MW2 is not in any way, shape, or form Counter-Strike. You can't defend MW2 if you have never played it.

Please, play the game then come back and try and argue with me.
