Well gee, Ack, you know, by replying like this you're really only bolstering his argument that you're on here only for post count and nothing else. I was merely stating that it's rather immature - he DID ask you politely if you'd stop with your inane correction posts. The only thing that even resembled an insult was the word lame, which of course, you countered with by calling him a moron and me an idiot...why even bother? Stop spamming - with both your insults AND "correction" posts - it seriously is getting on a lot of people's nerves.

C'mon guys how can aircraftkiller2001 possibly get on your nerves? Ignore him, if you don't like him. He only posts short messages anyways. Correcting Nod doesn't really make much difference, but some people really should try to use punctuation, so people will understand what they mean. I think correcting Nod is more funny than annoying.

I think that it would be a good time to point out (again) that it's ONLY the new people to this forum that flame ACK over the evedence they have gathered up over about 3 topics flameing him, you will find that most people will find him funny (or just not read his post.... then you get the odd ****head that has to make a big speach about it all complaing about some someone saying it's Nod not NOD etc(sorry for bad spelling all.... its 1AM and im very tired)
