Fuck you. You cheat now because StarCraft 1 is ancient and nobody cares to enforce cheating policy there anymore. If you think you'll be getting away with the same bullshit all over again, you have another thing coming.

You also said you weren't cheating in Renegade, confessing only once you were busted. That makes you a lying sack of shit, even if everyone else seems to be bedazzled with the fact that you didn't press your luck and deny it even after being busted. What will have changed by the time SC2 is released? I can only hope you get caught and banned quickly so you don't ruin too many games.

Hacks will be useless in SC2 anyway and when they become useful there will be such a crackdown on hacks that it wont be worth it there is my reason not to hack SC2... maybe ill actually build some decent SC skills. Of course i know after this post will be ANOTHER useless flame.

You have a point... tho really the only reason why i use hacks in SC is because i suck and will still try to gain skills for SC2. The reason i do not change for SC1 is im a lost cause on that game

Now that i think of it, i have been banned 3 times from SC apparently they care a significant amount, or they will just have an IP ban function instead of the IP ban hack/program(I had a discussion over that in SC that is why i use both names)or it will just continue the same route, but either way i am not going to hack in SC2

I honestly have no idea. Chin and maybe around your cheeks (maybe, if you have the jawline to make it look decent) I can understand, but neckbeards are fucking ugly.
