Or he can fvck himself?Well i think he can at least your a loser if you cant!But anyway, No its not possile becouse you need to jump on the tank and that is not *ible for GDI (maybe on the flying maps)And 2 the drive from one base to anoths is to long for the detonation to hit a building.And most of the time when you try to deploy the beacon on the tank near the enemy base your likely to get shot or the tank is forced to move.But i dont think it has been tested yet so...

And 3, the beacon will float in the air where you placed it.Thought I'd point out that minor detail.BTW - I've read that some people actually can * themselves, so your post wasn't entirely accurate

Here we go: quote:Originally posted by xlroguelx:This "useful" tactic can be used to destroy the hand of nod.Take any tank and a beacon and drive over to the HON park the tank right next to the entrance slopes.Go up onto the slopes and jump from one onto your tank, when on it deploy your beacon.Get in the tank and drive off, leavnig it floating in mid-air.This is a useful(ish) trick as it can confuse people as to the where-abouts of the beacon and is also slightly harder to difuse.

I agree with NOVA5 who ever made that skin loves the .... j/k YEs that is a good image but in some maps the beacon goes through the apc and on the ground.

On Hourglass you can get on any vehicle. Just park it next to the walls with the ramps at the entrance of your base, walk up the ramp and jump on it.
