I believe that since exam time, and universities are finished for now, and with summer ahead is that we should start getting regular lobby wars going again every Friday.

I'm thinking that they should be held at around 8pm - 9pm GMT because it's a time when most of the Europeans still have to time to go out afterward and the Americans play before they go out.

These lobby wars will be taking place every Friday, and the meeting place will be at my TeamSpeak:- ts.thejanitor.info:14707

So, if you guys are interested - I'd appreciate it if you could connect to the TeamSpeak above for 8pm and we could hopefully have games going for about 8:30pm GMT.

Hope to see you all there.

Regards, Hypnos.

Well, I believed the majority of them were finished for now - my mistake! But yeah, I'm not planning for these to start becoming regular occurrences until Friday the 18th of June because I am away the weekend of Friday 11th of June. So, I'm basically just passing the word around that these will be taking place.

I'd love it if any of you believe some of your friends will be willing to attend that you bring them along because the more people, the better!

You're aware that 8PM GMT is 22.00 CET? So you're suggesting to start at 22.30, which is in my opinion rather late. Also, I wouldn't try to do this every friday, as that will most likely fails. You can much better try to do this once a month or biweekly or something to my experience.

that's because australia sucks!
yah, every two weeks seems better

8 pm gmt on a friday has many north american players either at work or just barely getting home from it (if they have jobs)

idk about school, people have different schedules

I suppose the Saturday would be most suited for the majority anyway, but I'm happy to run them on both nights. The way these usually work is that we'll have one with the Europeans at the scheduled time and then those Europeans like myself will stay up until 3 or 4 in the morning and play with the Americans.

You seem to forget that there is a 1 hour time difference between the Uk and mainland Europe. Which would make it 5 to 4 in the morning here, which is pushing it I'd say. Not that it doesn't happen, but still..

I wasn't forgetting the hour difference between majority of the United Kingdom and Europeans, but some people do stay up quite late to 3am or 4am my time, which is either 4am or 5am for them...

Bump.

Due to the World Cup being on, I'm willing to start these at around 10pm instead. That way you can watch the evening game and then play.
