I literally have over 15-20 nicks that I'm able to use under my serial even though the limit is supposedly 9; I'm not sure how. Anyhow, I've noticed that it's finally not allowing me to make any new names, so I've tried to delete some of the older ones on xwis. Unfortunately every time I type in the nick and password and submit to delete it says the nick doesn't exist. I can still go back into renegade and use any nick I tried to delete that they say doesn't exist. I've tried to delete at least 4 but none of them "exist" but are usable in game still.

Any ideas?

I think to my knowledge (it's been a while, Goztow might know better), that the buttons on the login dialog don't work except the login one, which sends the request to XWIS and registers your serial with the nick. I'm not sure if the limit still applies to that, but as I said, Goztow or someone who's recently used XWIS would be better to contact.

Other than that, this topic/help request should be sent to strike-team.net.

[edit]After a quick browse of strike-team.net forums it seems like this link holds all your registered accounts, which you can then delete as you see fit.

I'm convinced that if you already have 15-20, you don't need any more. So I'm not tempted to help you at all.

New nicks will be possible register only over control panel on XWIS sites. Currently its impossible register new nicks.

I should have mentioned this when I found out but anyways... it is still possible to delete nicks using the same method, the link just changed.

It's now at http://xwis.net/xwi/rg/?a=delete_nick (rg and xwi were switched around) and currently that control panel is only for RA2 & YR.

You can use nicks from other serial but to delete them, it must be on the serial you're using.

Well, I went on a little craze to lock certain nicks to my serial that I considered "cool" back then, when Westwood first stopped supporting Renegade. I'm sure hundreds of others did the same thing...

Thanks anyway Gozy?
