
Subject: Protest the Pope

Posted by Spoony on Thu, 16 Sep 2010 17:44:33 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

so this wretched, villainous old slug is over here now as an honoured guest. i'm not sure whether that's more or less offensive than when that medieval gangster King Abdullah of Saudi Arabia was given the same honours.

this guy sums it up pretty well

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=jFf8vJ_LtAY

Subject: Re: Protest the Pope

Posted by Starbuzzz on Thu, 16 Sep 2010 20:23:46 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

In southern India, there is a preacher by the name of Dinakaran. You can think of him as our pope. He claims to have "seen" Jesus many times and can "heal" too.

He is the leader of a massive organization known as "Jesus Calls" that reaps enormous financial gains. They even have a "Young Partners" program where parents can "enroll" their children into so they the "taskforce of prayer warriors" can pray for them each day. All for a yearly fee that is.

He is a theiving son of a bitch but thanks to people's idioitc delusional gulliability, he is seen as some grand king. Nobody can critize him or his family because his fans will immediately come down on you.

I guess this same delusional frenzy all based upon a grand lie gives the same sort of support for the pope.

Subject: Re: Protest the Pope

Posted by nikki6ixx on Thu, 16 Sep 2010 20:28:37 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

The Vatican is not a country. It's beyond me why the FBI, CIA, and INTERPOL haven't had a big fat feel-good beatdown on these slimeballs. Betraying the teachings of God, and Jesus will mean these rapists will burn in Hell anyways, but in the meantime, they should also be subjected to the laws of this world too.

Subject: Re: Protest the Pope

Posted by Starbuzzz on Thu, 16 Sep 2010 23:54:23 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

tbh, I don't think the faith-befuddled governments of today will get anything done. As long that's the case, these guys can commit every crime under the sun and get away with it.

Subject: Re: Protest the Pope

Posted by liquidv2 on Fri, 17 Sep 2010 00:22:12 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

the world currently lacks the fortitude it needs to get things done the right way

Subject: Re: Protest the Pope

Posted by DRNG on Fri, 17 Sep 2010 01:03:44 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Everything is proceeding as I have foreseen.

On a more serious note, why is this backwards ass stone age old fuck allowed in the country? Oh, you propah govnahs.

Subject: Re: Protest the Pope

Posted by R315r4z0r on Fri, 17 Sep 2010 01:06:04 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

While people pretend to understand how the word works, the reality is that no one has the slightest clue.

There is absolutely nobody in the world that fully understands any one item; be it a system or a person or whatever. There might people who consider themselves professionals in certain fields, but that by no means means they know all there is to know about their given field.

This, tied in with human's natural yet baseless fear of openly admitting to ignorance, is what allows certain crimes and whatnot to go on.

The average person would rather admit to not knowing something because "they don't care" rather than admit to making a mistake or having the wrong insight.

Bad things like this will happen and continue to happen because few too little people will openly confront their actions by questioning the motives of the people they blindly believe in. Most people will just allow it to continue because they don't care enough to actually delve into things that are actually happening. They trust their good name and can't comprehend them doing something bad.

Some will even go as far to outright defend something they don't fully understand.

..In this case, people would defend Christianity and the Pope because he is a Christian... but at the same time be unaware of what he really has done.

Subject: Re: Protest the Pope

Posted by Spoony on Fri, 17 Sep 2010 08:00:46 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

DRNG wrote on Thu, 16 September 2010 20:03
it's uncanny, isn't it?

Subject: Re: Protest the Pope

Posted by Spoony on Fri, 17 Sep 2010 09:48:04 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

it's a lovely day today, and that's good, because it's my best friend's wedding. maybe the weather is due to the pope's magic powers. after all, he can turn wine into blood, though i'm not quite sure why anybody wants him to.

Subject: Re: Protest the Pope

Posted by liquidv2 on Sun, 19 Sep 2010 01:02:37 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

is that sanitary

Subject: Re: Protest the Pope

Posted by snpr1101 on Sun, 19 Sep 2010 08:04:56 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

liquidv2 wrote on Sat, 18 September 2010 20:02is that sanitary homo!

Only if you're a twilight fan.

Subject: Re: Protest the Pope

Posted by sadukar09 on Sun, 19 Sep 2010 17:16:02 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

You gotta give credit to his holy highness.

He knows how to travel in style.

Bitches be trippin'

Subject: Re: Protest the Pope

Posted by Tiesto on Sun, 19 Sep 2010 22:00:16 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Gotta love those rims yeah

Subject: Re: Protest the Pope

Posted by liquidv2 on Sun, 19 Sep 2010 22:45:59 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

is he on top of a giant toilet

Subject: Re: Protest the Pope

Posted by DRNG on Mon, 20 Sep 2010 21:09:49 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Well, it's clear that the old bag can't trust God to save him from would-be assassins.

Subject: Re: Protest the Pope

Posted by snpr1101 on Tue, 21 Sep 2010 03:01:42 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

DRNG wrote on Mon, 20 September 2010 16:09Well, it's clear that the old bag can't trust God to save him from would-be assassins.

Oh no sir. God helps those who help themselves remember?

And when that bullet proof glass stops the terrorists bullets in their tracks; praise be to God.

But when that Earthquake kills thousands of people, we must improve our building standards.

Subject: Re: Protest the Pope

Posted by Starbuzzz on Fri, 04 Feb 2011 06:24:54 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

<http://religion.blogs.cnn.com/2011/02/03/u-k-diverted-aid-money-to-fund-pope-vis-it-lawmakers-find/?hpt=T2>

Subject: Re: Protest the Pope

Posted by Spoony on Fri, 04 Feb 2011 08:38:06 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

yeah, fuck those countries where people don't have clean water, the money really needs to go on paying for an accomplice in thousands of child rapes to come here and tell us atheists are nazis

Subject: Re: Protest the Pope

Posted by Hypnos on Fri, 04 Feb 2011 11:26:47 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Spoony wrote on Fri, 04 February 2011 08:38yeah, fuck those countries where people don't have clean water, the money really needs to go on paying for an accomplice in thousands of child rapes to come here and tell us atheists are nazis

Makes perfect sense.

Subject: Re: Protest the Pope

Posted by bmr_71 on Sun, 06 Feb 2011 03:14:16 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I think the pope's a pretty cool guy. In fact, I can't wait till he comes.

You guys are just a bunch of butthurt haters.

Subject: Re: Protest the Pope

Posted by Spoony on Sun, 06 Feb 2011 03:38:46 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

the irony is, the pope is responsible for an awful lot of children being butthurt

Subject: Re: Protest the Pope

Posted by bmr_71 on Sun, 06 Feb 2011 05:18:48 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

The pope isn't responsible for shit. He may be held accountable, but accountability != responsibility.

An individual is responsible for his actions.

A leader may or may not be held accountable, but it doesn't change anything if he is or isn't, since he isn't responsible to begin with.

Subject: Re: Protest the Pope

Posted by R315r4z0r on Sun, 06 Feb 2011 05:34:52 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

bmr_71 wrote on Sun, 06 February 2011 00:18 The pope isn't responsible for shit. He may be held accountable, but accountability != responsibility.

An individual is responsible for his actions.

A leader may or may not be held accountable, but it doesn't change anything if he is or isn't, since he isn't responsible to begin with.

I agree with this.

I've noticed that people tend to allow themselves to blame people with power more easily than people without it.

I don't believe it's right to punish someone for something that they, themselves, have never done. Even if they are 'linked' to said crimes, if they themselves haven't actually done anything, they are under no obligation to be held responsible.

For example, if someone is going around bragging and proclaiming that they are a Nazi, why should they be punished for doing so? Anyone can believe what they want to believe. That's what makes everyone different. It isn't right to discriminate against them because their moral code conflicts with yours.

Saying you like to kill people is much different than actually killing someone.

Subject: Re: Protest the Pope

Posted by Nukelt15 on Sun, 06 Feb 2011 05:52:14 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

The Vatican has one of the best spy networks in the entire bloody world. The Pope could order those responsible to be found and excommunicated and purge his church of the rot in less than a year. Thus exposed and denied the Church's protection, they could then be effectively pursued and squashed by law enforcement, and given the prison-raping they all so richly deserve.

We're talking about the one and only religion that is literally a nation unto itself- there are Vatican embassies in nearly every country that has a Catholic presence. The Roman Catholic Church has been around longer than any other organized governing body, their power structure has existed in its present form since before the invention of the printing press, and they have their fingers in places even the CIA would salivate over getting a look at. If they wanted the problem gone, it would be gone. It isn't as though child rape is part of a Catholic priest's vows, after all- these pedophiles are a cancer that has been allowed to spread through negligence, incompetence, and a desire on the part of the Church's leaders to save face rather than drag their Church's dirty laundry out into the open in order to stamp out the problem.

Ironically, the longer they keep at the cover-up game, the more attractive they look to the next batch of child-raping asshats. In order to get rid of them, the Church must first make itself a dangerous place for a pedophile to be. They have the means to do that, just not the will.

Subject: Re: Protest the Pope

Posted by Spoony on Sun, 06 Feb 2011 07:10:40 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

boomer and razor... you are aware of the fact the vatican has been systematically shielding its child-rapist employees from the law for decades, shifting them to new parishes, bullying and coercing the poor victims into signing secrecy agreements, threatening people with hell if they talk to anyone outside the church about it... and that the current pope was a key figure in this whole evil scheme?

i don't say the pope himself is a child rapist (i don't think anyone's ever said that); i said he's an accomplice in thousand of child rapes, or maybe 'accessory' is the right word.

Subject: Re: Protest the Pope

Posted by GEORGE ZIMMER on Sun, 06 Feb 2011 18:17:56 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Agreed. When you have the power to stop something terrible from happening and know it's happening, then you're just as bad as the person doing it.

And let's face it, the pope could easily stop that shit.

Subject: Re: Protest the Pope

Posted by Spoony on Sun, 06 Feb 2011 19:12:59 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

let's not go thinking it's just a case of negligence either. the current pope instructed all local catholic authorities to report all cases of rapes of children to him and only him, instructing them that talking to anyone else about it would mean being thrown out of the church and going to hell (the other people he says are going to hell are non-catholic Christians and non-Christians; oddly enough i don't think he's ever said that child rapists end up there).

can anyone point to a single case, out of the thousands and thousands and thousands of catholic priests raping children all over the world, where the pope has gone to the local law and said "i've been made aware that one of my employees raped a child, here is everything i know about the matter, good luck with your investigation"? i put it to you that if you become aware of an adult who has raped a child, you stop whatever the fuck you're doing and you go to the police and tell them everything you know.

instead, he shields them from the law, victims are threatened and bullied into silence, and when people say WHAT THE FUCK IS THIS (as is finally starting to happen) he acts like we're the nazis and they're the jews, we're persecuting them.

(the irony of that is that the catholic church was persecuting the jewish people centuries before the nazis came along, and was an enthusiastic supporter of european fascism) seriously, how much more depraved could a group be? if it was mcdonalds acting this way we'd shut them down. i haven't even started on its policy on condoms, which is a whole separate bucket of inhumanity.

Subject: Re: Protest the Pope

Posted by bmr_71 on Sun, 06 Feb 2011 19:59:21 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Pope's doing what he believes is for the greater good. No shit he doesn't approve of child rape, but for sure he isn't willing to destroy the religion he blindly believes in due to a few bad apples.

Why does it bother you so much anyway? If you all really gave a fuck about people, you'd be doing something for them. Really we just want to win internet points on internet discussions.

Subject: Re: Protest the Pope

Posted by Spoony on Sun, 06 Feb 2011 22:38:45 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

bmr_71 wrote on Sun, 06 February 2011 12:59Pope's doing what he believes is for the greater good. No shit he doesn't approve of child rape, but for sure he isn't willing to destroy the religion he blindly believes in due to a few bad apples.

when it's an institutionalisation of child rape and a systematic cover-up by the top brass, it's no longer "a few bad apples". or if it is a few bad apples, they're in charge.

he's also pretty dense if he thinks covering it up will be better for his church than throwing out these monsters and turning them over to the law

Quote:Why does it bother you so much anyway?

yeah, who cares about kids getting raped? who cares about the millions of people dying every year from AIDS while the pope lies to them about condoms cos he thinks that's better than admitting the pope a few decades ago was wrong? if you don't care about this sort of thing, boomer, what do you care about? i really would like to know.

Quote:If you all really gave a fuck about people, you'd be doing something for them.

like raising awareness about the situation, encouraging open debate... and supporting a secularist group in the UK which has done a great deal to campaign against this vile old slug of a pope.

National Secular Society

Quote:Really we just want to win internet points on internet discussions.

what are you talking about?

as for the pictures, i don't think i've ever said "religion is holding me back", although it does oppose democracy and freedom of speech in the UK, so it wouldn't be inaccurate if i did. and i don't set out to annoy christians, but if saying the pope ought to be asked some fucking serious questions in front of a court does annoy christians as a side-effect then it's a price worth paying. i'd annoy everyone on the planet if it prevented one kid being raped by a priest, how about you?

Subject: Re: Protest the Pope

Posted by bmr_71 on Mon, 07 Feb 2011 00:58:51 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

we both know im not gonna read that.

ima stop toasting in this bread

Subject: Re: Protest the Pope

Posted by Altzan on Mon, 07 Feb 2011 02:13:00 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

File Attachments

1)

See-intelligent-debate-about-religion-post-atheist-fag-meme.jpg, downloaded 902 times

Subject: Re: Protest the Pope

Posted by _SSnipe_ on Mon, 07 Feb 2011 07:25:01 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

wow spoony really? another anti-religion crusade.....

Subject: Re: Protest the Pope

Posted by Starbuzzz on Mon, 07 Feb 2011 08:14:07 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

(SSnipe) -BLU3Y3Z- wrote on Mon, 07 February 2011 00:25wow spoony really? another anti-religion crusade.....

Where will Hindus go after they die?

Subject: Re: Protest the Pope

Posted by Spoony on Mon, 07 Feb 2011 13:13:14 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

firstly, blu3y3z, do you wanna have a crack at my reply to your last comment about religion?

Spoony wrote on Fri, 14 January 2011 04:02(SSnipe) -BLU3Y3Z- wrote on Fri, 14 January 2011 04:45I always thought of it this way, if there is a god, why take your chances? if there is not a god then ok but if there is, its to late your fucked when you die this is what religion always boils down to in the end... threats.

by "take your chances" i presume you mean being honest about having doubts about the extremely specific claims made by religion, bearing in mind the complete lack of evidence for them.

secondly, belief isn't a choice. i don't know how your mind works, but i can't choose to believe something even if i'm threatened with punishment if i don't.

thirdly, there are several contradictory religions who make this threat. the pope says only catholics are going to heaven and other non-catholic christians are going to hell with all the other atheists. some protestant churches say the same thing in reverse. islam says all non-muslims are going to hell. who's right, blu3y3z? which of these if any are correct, and which are liars and frauds?

fourthly, you're saying this god of yours is going to torture people just for not being convinced of his existence (again, see above re: complete lack of evidence). what a colossal prick. what a cruel, merciless monster this god of yours seems to be. you want to worship something as evil as that? what does this say about you?

Quote:but its more then that its a faith that brings you happiness and most people who I know who are religious are good hard working people, while most people who dont believe him so they think they can create all chaos they want which led to horrible things. Yes alot of people take religion and turn it into something bad cults, terrorist, but we only notice them for that reason while more of the world has crime create form the ones who don't believe.

interesting you say that. you're pro-torture and anti-freedom of religion, and the reason you take these extraordinary positions is religion. you wouldn't think that if it wasn't for religion, surely. you talk about people "taking religion and turning it into cults and terrorists". well, i presume you consider yourself a moderate, yet you're anti-freedom of religion and pro-torture as a punishment for not being the right religion. as for the fundamentalists, i hope you're aware that islamic jihadism isn't a misinterpretation or corruption of the quran and hadith. i invite you to read them.

"most people don't believe him so they think they can create all chaos they want" - the religious always like to find a hidden agenda for anyone who doesn't believe their extremely specific claims. it can't be because you've got fuck all evidence or because your holy book is revolting, can it?

"more of the world has crime create form the ones who don't believe."
in america, the proportion of prison inmates who are atheists is significantly lower than the proportion of atheists in the free population. i wouldn't necessarily argue that this proves anything, but you said it. as for the rest of the world, the more secular countries always do best in societal health - low crime, good education, good health, low teenage pregnancy etc.
if someone said i was pro-torture and anti-freedom of religion, i would definitely want to correct them.

secondly...

(SSnipe) -BLU3Y3Z- wrote on Mon, 07 February 2011 00:25wow spoony really? another anti-religion crusade.....

yes, here's yet another case of a religion behaving in an almost indescribably evil manner. as if we needed another. you'll notice i've generally left Sikhs and Quakers alone, for example; why do you think that might be?

Subject: Re: Protest the Pope

Posted by GEORGE ZIMMER on Mon, 07 Feb 2011 18:49:52 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

(SSnipe) -BLU3Y3Z- wrote on Mon, 07 February 2011 00:25wow spoony really? another anti-religion crusade.....

Anti religion? I don't see him ranting about religion in whole, so much as it is ranting about Christianity, Judaism (well, maybe not so much Judaism), and Islam (which are all basically the same thing, anyways). Probably because they've caused the most bloodshed in the history of mankind.

Subject: Re: Protest the Pope

Posted by R315r4z0r on Mon, 07 Feb 2011 21:40:33 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

GEORGE ZIMMER wrote on Sun, 06 February 2011 13:17Agreed. When you have the power to stop something terrible from happening and know it's happening, then you're just as bad as the person doing it.

And let's face it, the pope could easily stop that shit.

I disagree with this too.

Someone who has the power to stop something but chooses not to should not be held accountable.

Like it or not they have the right to decide what they should and should not do.

Sure, someone who chooses not to stop something bad from happening can be called a selfish, monumental douche who doesn't deserve anyone's respect, but that's really it. Like I said before, you can't punish someone for having morals that conflict with your own... no matter how much you don't like it, you have to grin and bare it. It should not be possible for any law to hold them accountable for anything... regardless of how heinous the crime is or how easy it would have been for them to stop it.

Subject: Re: Protest the Pope

Posted by Starbuzzz on Wed, 09 Feb 2011 00:36:43 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

(SSnipe) -BLU3Y3Z- wrote on Fri, 14 January 2011 04:45I always thought of it this way, if there is a god, why take your chances? if there is not a god then ok but if there is, its to late your fucked when you die

Quote:Would a just God prefer to be joined in paradise by a honest, brave person who believed what his eyes and reason told him about reality or a mistaken, dishonest, cowardly one who did whatever was necessary to gain immortality?

Subject: Re: Protest the Pope

Posted by snpr1101 on Wed, 09 Feb 2011 00:44:14 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

(SSnipe) -BLU3Y3Z- wrote on Mon, 07 February 2011 00:25wow spoony really? another anti-religion crusade.....

It's not as if he started the topic. God forbid (hurr hurr)the man has an opinion and contributes to an otherwise inactive forum.

Just admit that's the best retort you've got to defend the Sun God, Apollo or whatever your invisible friends' name is.

Subject: Re: Protest the Pope

Posted by Spoony on Wed, 09 Feb 2011 02:27:12 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

R315r4z0r wrote on Mon, 07 February 2011 14:40GEORGE ZIMMER wrote on Sun, 06 February 2011 13:17Agreed. When you have the power to stop something terrible from happening and know it's happening, then you're just as bad as the person doing it.

And let's face it, the pope could easily stop that shit.

I disagree with this too.

Someone who has the power to stop something but chooses not to should not be held accountable.

Like it or not they have the right to decide what they should and should not do.

Sure, someone who chooses not to stop something bad from happening can be called a selfish, monumental douche who doesn't deserve anyone's respect, but that's really it. Like I said before, you can't punish someone for having morals that conflict with your own... no matter how much you don't like it, you have to grin and bare it. It should not be possible for any law to hold them accountable for anything... regardless of how heinous the crime is or how easy it would have been for them to stop it.

are you reading what we're saying about the pope's personal role in creating a systematic ministry of coverups?

we're not talking about someone who notices his friend smoke a joint here, we're talking about someone who, faced with his employees committing one of the most appalling crimes imaginable

- the rape and torture of children (don't call it "abuse" by the way, that's much too soft a word), deals with it by instructing them to talk to nobody but him, if you talk to anyone else about it (the police) you'll be thrown out of the church and you'll go to hell, bullying and coercing the victims into signing secrecy agreements, and shifting people he knows to be dangerous to new parishes. is there no law about conspiracy to conceal a crime? how about intimidation of victims? according to you "it should not be possible" for the law to do anything about this sick, evil slug of a man.

finally, comments like this:

"Like I said before, you can't punish someone for having morals that conflict with your own..." make me think you were reading a different thread and replied in this one by mistake

Subject: Re: Protest the Pope

Posted by R315r4z0r on Wed, 09 Feb 2011 02:43:41 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I wasn't trying to argue with you. In fact, I wasn't even trying to contribute to whatever you are arguing about.

I have no idea what you're talking about in this thread and nor do I care. I therefore am not partaking in either side of this argument. I don't recall ever saying I either supported or opposed the Pope.

I did find what someone said agreeable and what someone else said disagreeable though. That is why I bothered making a post in the first place and a counter post in the second. Neither of which are about the Pope specifically, just moral code in general.

Subject: Re: Protest the Pope

Posted by Taz on Wed, 09 Feb 2011 16:15:12 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Spoony, are you gay or were you sexually abused?

Subject: Re: Protest the Pope

Posted by newcheese on Wed, 09 Feb 2011 19:09:33 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

the truth is, spoony's just butthurt and hates religion (with reason, of course).

he's probably that annoying relative that always has to talk about politics and religion in family get togethers because his life is really uninteresting.

Subject: Re: Protest the Pope

Posted by Starbuzz on Wed, 09 Feb 2011 19:36:54 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

lol @ R3

Subject: Re: Protest the Pope

Posted by Spoony on Wed, 09 Feb 2011 19:42:26 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

newcheese wrote on Wed, 09 February 2011 12:09the truth is, spoony's just butthurt and hates religion (with reason, of course).

if you insist on joining the argument (you did say you were done with it, but that didn't seem to last very long) do you maybe wanna read what the person you're angry at is actually saying? there are quite a few statements of mine you ought to read, or maybe you just have a tough time admitting that they stumped you.

Quote:he's probably that annoying relative that always has to talk about politics and religion in family get togethers because his life is really uninteresting.

the only person in my family i tend to talk politics and religion with is my dad, cos he finds them interesting too. try to keep ad hominem to a minimum, boomer; attack my arguments all you like.

Quote:Spoony, are you gay or were you sexually abused?

if i was criticising racism, would you ask me my ethnicity? does it matter?
