Get a buggy or APC and an infantry with a rapid fire weapon(Chain gun Black hand and mendozas work best,not stealth)and a beacon.take the low road and run to the back end of the barracks(Not side,thats too easy to spot)Drop the beacon behind the barracks,and get back in your vehicle if its still alive and Park on the beacon.Did it this afternoon with an APC and a Mendoza.Works just spiffy. Bye Bye Barracks!

Mine is even better, get a buggy 2 engineers and take out the powerplant, then get back in your buggy drive back refill and take out the barracks

But it can be faster, since a buggy doesn't cost as much as the beacon and the engineers and refill is free.

Getting a couple of stealths and sneak back there and lay out some heavy fire works alot too.

Yes, but that requires team co-op, which is a bit tricky.

Even better is to lay 23 beacons all around the barracks. no way they can disarm all of them before at least one goes BOOM!

That'll work, just imagine the noise created by 20+ beacon warnings happening at the same time!

how is this a quick way? 1000 for mendoza, 500 for APC and 1000 for beacon! You need to save 2000-2500 to do this. By this time the map will be flooded with tanks

You could cut the cost by making it an officer. Rapid rate of fire for just about 1/10th the cost of a Mendoza. Even better is to coordinate one rush with another. Do a flame tank rush, but let someone with a beacon ride with one of the tanks. The planter, hops out as the flamers close in on the power plant and plants at the barracks. You'd have to wait the extra 200 to get a beacon before rushing, but it might be slightly faster, though not by much.

Well if flames rush in usually thousands of engineers and tanks run to intercept them. So there is no use in planting a beacon where the flames are cause the engines will disarm it. It's better if you go separately to the factory e.g. and plant a beacon there while the attention is focused on the flames

But the flames would be at the power plant while the beacon planter would be at the barracks. Same concept. But a separate buggy rush at the factory would work too. I was just thinking about costs and waiting for vehicles to be bought, etc.

I do this often, organize a flame rush then drive a buggy in on the oposite side and nuke after the flame rush has begun so all the people are on other side of base.

Maybe you should realize that any tactic posted in seriousness is potentially useful, considering that maybe there might actually be new players to this game?

The best way to take out anything in city is team work, once, we had 2 buggies and a full apc swarm the base at the same time. we took out half the base. This is a prime example that iff ppl work together, they can achieve n e thing

OK...newbs..the mine imit is 30 and teamwork wins the game. On volcano, we filled an apc, i jumped out at the airstrip and everyone else scattered in the base. Airstrip destroyed, HoN destroyed, little while later Refinery destroyed. Now that just sucks for them.
