To get early money just shoot enemy harvester. Gives good credits + does something useful for your team.A lot of players underestimate a first-round harvester kill by far.Mfg,ChaosE

You dont get credits for repairing empty vehicles. Dont argue. What I say is true.

lolSounds like a good idea providing you are on the other team. While you busy yourself with that activity, I am sneaking into your base with eng.

What do you do in ladderred games then? No sedans for you. First round harvy KO is very important,specially with low starting credits.

repairing enemy vehicles takes away points but has no effect on your credits. Healing an empty vehicle does absolutely nothing, test it on a destroyed refinery setting

Yeah, like ESV said, the credits you gained were from the refinery.

I believe you only get pts and creds when someone is actually occupying the vehicle that you are repairing.

a way to get fast money is to go into a server with FF on, then be an engi or hotwire. go into a building and set of a remote c4, then repair it, very good money. but if you do it too often youre allies will think your working undercover and tresonously kill you.

flashcar1, you are not getting money for repairing. You said it only works if thr REF is still up. Well, the sedan heals fast, and thr ref gives you 2 creds per second, so thats where i think you got your money
