OK so we're well in to the game and there are med tanks pounding our base to hell but luckily every single structure continues to operate thanks to me working my ass off and repairing everything as a tech. Soon I see that my credits are in the thousands and I decide to change to a SBH and plant a beacon at their base, so I tell my team that I'm no longer going to be repairing our base and that somebody best take my position. Well I purchase my SBH and my beacon and head to the GDI base but unfortunately I get killed while I try to plant the beacon. When I spawn back I see that the only structures we have left are the power plant and the refinery and my team is trying to ward off the med tanks and APCs with shotguns. That is when I exploded in a rage of fury - nobody even considered the prospect of changing to a tech even after I warned them twice. Atleast I got no ladder points taken away because I was in first place on my team. Anyways, just had to let that out, some people are really stupid.

Sounds like the basic n00b filled team -- sorry you had to go through this !

I've been in this situation several times but much like you I was the MVP for the team so no skin off my back !!

Check this screenie for a perfect example. I got 1st on my team and all I didnt was repair & defend (infi defend only).

arghh, in this case, its worse hearing about the n00bs that ruined your game, than the ones that just ruined mine.

I really hate it when that happens I repair the buildings only when we are under severe attack but even then I am usually one of two people repairing...

Those n00bs who keep losing us points by running out into the middle of 8 med tanks with a Soldier or those who by Buggys/Humvees to take on a Mammoth/Stealth they should help repair.
