There aren't anywhere near as many imo, since Renegade is a dying game. Most of the hardcore cheaters seem to be gone.

I get this from my experience while playing Renegade these days anyways.

Eh, it's not as bad as it used to be, but they are still there. Most of it's just rgh, anyway. Occasionally, you'll get some bh, rof, damage hack even.

Though, *cheat name removed* seems to be the most dominant of cheats. TT supposed to fix it though

Iv'e only come across 4 or 5 that cheat to the point of impossible to kill in my years of play. So really there aren't that many that I know of. Though I'm sure there are more in bigger games.

You have to remember that in a game this old... there will be people who are insanely good.

Some people can't comprehend that so just instantly shout cheater.

I do quite a lot... you can tell a cheater straight away due to gun movement and their shooting pattern... there are a few but never too many to still enjoy the game.

Just watch their gun movement, good snipers use free aim, and will kill the greater threat first. For example a havoc over a tib sydney.

150 players.
100 of them use advanced stuff so they can push their skill.

30 of them use cheats like aimbots, bigbodies, radar hacks.

Exactly....good snipers will kill you at a certain point in a good fight normally, while cheaters will kill you when they shouldn't even be shooting at you, or don't have a chance to kill you without them. It's all about patterns really, when cheat detecting.

I personally think that people still say there are way more cheaters than there really are....it's the ones that you've never heard of that are randomly good, or the ones that got good overnight that you have to keep an eye on....not so much the more experienced players anymore.....with the exception of 1 or 2.

being pretty generous there

@ImJamie: I haven't seen you for a while on any of the active servers till a few months ago, unless you were using smurfs. First time I joined NS' server in quite a while (it happened a few weeks ago) some guy used a rof pistol on me then left and some guy was blatantly using an aimbot. I've only seen one guy blatantly use an aimbot or triggerbot on APB Gamma and I've been playing that since the Gamma version got released. Also haven't seen players getting "lucky" in regards to conveniently going in the direction of people who are hiding or who are covertly attacking a base while playing that game. While I caught a guy doing that and snapping onto everyone (even teammates) a few days ago on Jelly, he also entered spectate for half a minute.

The few cheaters in this game usually get banned in 10 minutes or less. The moderators sometimes get desperate, so they blame someone for cheating, when they really weren't (This reminds me of a time when someone pressed X and then shot and killed someone with a havoc, and the mods banned him, unfairly.)

hard to say because of the low playercount, the ratio is probably similar.

most cheaters these days are much more stealthy with what they use, but more importantly how they use them.

rarely do you see someone get banned for using bigheads (new ban, not detail match) or shooting the ground killing people obviously spectating.

but then again, alot of moderators are better, more experienced and have honed their ability to spot more subtle cheaters.

either way, its worth playing
