This one time on field, Nod was pounding us with Arts. We had a fair sized tank group at the entrance, and NO ONE would attack. So I grabbed a Med and a hottie, and charged like a maniac. I destroyed all three Arts, ignoring the infantry inside them. An LCG BH finally broke my tank, and I threw my remotes and times around, and pulled out my loaded pistol (do that every time before leaving base, folks) and popped a few enemies. Finally, someone said, "hey, someone help that guy out in the field" (I'm not lying) and I led that charge.Firing my pistol at another LCG, I led those mammies, meds, and MRL's. We eventually won. If I had an extra set of hands I would have typed "affix bayonets!" in F2 whilst pistol blasting.

That wouldn't have happened with me in the game. My LCG BH owns j00! My laser cuts through med tanks like a hot knife through butter. Burn baby burn! I'd give your Hottie some corrective laser eye surgery!!! "Owww, my eyes! It burns!"

If I had been playing in that game as Nod,I would have for sure had a Raver.And in that case,your med tank wouldnt have gotten much further than the bridges.

This really happened. I don't know what miracle occured to make this able to happen, (perhaps they were'nt shooting at me, perhaps they were shooting the mammys back at base) but I do not lie to you. They must have been n00bs, or maybe just plain stupid, but it did happen. I know I have no proof, so disbelieve if you want, but please accept the fact that it MIGHT have happened, please.

SgtZim: I don't frequent any one particular server, just the lowest pinging ones.   Actually, I was on mutants server last night. Man, that was close game. It was the map where the tibernium field is shared between the two bases. Any ways, GDI was pounding the crap out of us. Our airstrip and refinery were gone. Any ways, this guy (starts with a c, crim-something or other) stole a Humvee. I join up with him and we head for GDI's power plant as 2 engineers and we make it in! Unforunately, the clock hit 0 at that point.   Oh well.Supertech

I believe you. And I must say you were very lucky in being on a team that would actually work together. Most teams dont. But there are a few people out there who can work together. I remember once when playing GDI on CITY_FLYING NOd had taken our Weapons factory and Refinery. A player whom I cannot remember the name stole a nod transport and shuttled me when I was powersuit sydney back and forth between the bases. I would have died without him but with his help i took out both turrets and dealt some serios damage to the PP and OB. Now that was luck because NOD had some good players they took out the majority of our base I had to quit early so i never found out who won.
