Yeah,most people know this,but thats the way itis with most topics on this forum.Aim for the buildings doors.You can sometimes boink people coming out to attack you,people going in to repair,and your still hitting the building. This works great on the airstrip,since there is only one entrance,and if the door is open,you can even score some direct hits on the engys inside repairing.

You gotta be careful with that - if you dont see the red box around the target that says the name of the buildings - your rounds dont do that much damage. (try shooting at the PT when the door is open - no damage occurs to the building)But -- i always try to aim at the mct or pt in the building from the outside -- i usually score a couple splash damage kills always fun.
