I personally love it. Especially on the map Complex (That is the one with all the ramps in your base right? If not then i mean Canyon). I have found this real cool spot where you can sit and wait for people going past and they never know whats hit em! Plus the other day i was a Stealth Black Hand and i got in to GDI's base but my Vehicle got destroyed (Should have been an Engi) so i was left in the base alone and i went and hid deep in the ramps and vents of their base. I couldn't get out because i literally had no more than 5 life left! But i was full on Ammo so i fired on Vehicled going past and i would watch as they turned their turrets round frantically looking for where the shots are coming from! Hehe eventually though a Mammoth found me out and he told a nearby Mobius. And that was my fun over

I like going stealth, even without the stealth bh. Just sneak up on people, plant c4 on their heads, stuff like that stealing tanks is so fun. specially wen they accuse you of cheating field and under are just too easy. wot *es me off is that repairing your own tank in your own base is OK, when you have base defence left, but when its down its just stupid. also, get a SBH and sit behind the gdi ref on walls flying. guarenteed to get urself an orca.

There is nothing better than getting into position and sniping. I love seeing " wtf? where were you?"

" Like I would tell.....Being sneaky is fun for the hunter, and the hunted.
