this game is pretty terrible, it's like world of warcraft combined with counter-strike, though you're randomly not doing any damage even though the game tells you you've hit stuff. Artillery and tank destroyers insta-kill most tanks, and you need to spend months playing the game before you can buy decent tanks.

There's one game mode, you can't select maps, there's no respawning, you can't join the match that already started and there are no dedicated servers. It takes about 2 minutes for a new game to start (there's loading, waiting for the other players to load ingame and a 30 second wait time). the matchmaking is terrible, you'll be playing games against high tier tanks most of the time. After you've targetted something you need to stay still for around 30 seconds while aiming or the recoil will be too high for the shot to hit, although shots will still randomly hit if that's the case.

and of course sadukar09 is ranked first in the world so the game is a joke skill-wise.

It's a free game, feels midly fun to me, any game i've played, theys always been someone as bad as me and of course high ranked = skill...

err yeah unless the ladder system is shit like renegade's being ranked #1 of the world and being a member of the clan ranked #1 or #2 is skill compared to more than 100,000 other players. i've played this game for 10 hours or so and the players are really clueless in this game, in the end i had 3.0KD with a shitty ass tier 3 light tank. it'd probably be fun playing clanwars if it werent for the fact that unlike in the normal game mode, in clanwars you can use any tier tanks, so you'd have to play half a year to get the decent tanks. basically plays like some shitty rpg game where you have to grind instead of use skill.

yeah the first 2 tiers are somewhat balanced (the russian tanks are better though), but starting from the 3rd one it's all grinding to get better shit
