I have found it so funny to watch players go out and get killed multiple times, and either; A. Get intimidated and stink for the rest of the game using the same tactics because thier opponent is so "good"B. Get infuriated, and run headlong into battle blasting away at everything, and getting type killed while they type what a cheater the rest of us are. These people give me sooooooo many kills. I love em. I really do.

I'd like to add "whiner" to this category. Not only are they fun to prove wrong, and in the midst of their "8 wps" typing, they are sniped by you. Truely children among men.

the type kill excuse is one of my personal favs. especially when the n00b is standing in the middle of a map where anyone can get him, and types some crap about cheating snipers and such. Then they start cussing at ya when ya "type-kill" them again. Truly one of my most favorite excuses to listen to.

I just remind them to stop standing idle in the open. Two or three "MINUTES" later, I see them again (on field for example) and I've got a headshot before they even realize how they died.Soon afterward, I am the topic of discussion of the other team because of a 40:1 ratio. (lol, the only death was a type kill in the tunnels HAH)

but don't you know people play this game to chat...They think it is a replacement to AOL instant messenger or something.OMG why don't they just shut up and play.If I see them just standing there. I may stop to send a quick "hi" before I kill them. That always gets them even more fired up.
