why do people insist on attacking with their stealth tanks from great distance? for example; i always see in hourglass stealth tanks sitting in side paths or on the hilltop trying to attack biuldings. dont they realize their missiles get halfway to their target then explode in mid-air.

IF you do it right, they go over and hit GDI's tanks over the hill without getting damaged

On Field, you can just hit the GDI WF from just around the corner, while not being hit by the AGT

You can hit the AGT too, if you are quick.
