So i'm going to be putting up some servers soon and I was wondering if the idea of having a sort of SSGM-plugin (or built in) protocol to be able to stream live music feed from a Shoutcast server is possible?

You would need a modified client. So it's not really possible to setup I would say.

I mean, it could be part of 4.0 no? Considering they managed to make "Resource Manager" possible my guess is that it's possible to do anything

Considering they managed to make "Resource Manager" possible my guess is that it's possible to do anything Audio bits are a bit troublesome if I recall correctly and introducing a whole streaming audio decoder is a lot of work for something that would only be used on one or maybe 2 servers.

Like I said, it was a dumb idea. But it's good to know it's possible, if difficult to do.

Which is why I still hope for some sort of basic client plugin system some day
(ie. Server Connect/Disconnect hook, Map Load/Unload hook, etc. Might look into that some day ) an even more dumb idea would be making crates automatically change the audio stream to a different channel

Oh no, player Omar007 got the Country Crate! Better marry your cousin before somebody else does! YEEEEHAWWWWW

That would already be possible, with packages then however and the code to play sounds from the data dir.
