Just using an existing thread: got another crash - crashdump attached.

Was playing Jelly Marathon on Walls Flying, nothing unusual happened, I just froze up while I was up on the middle mesa thing and then the client disappeared and that was that.

Next time, please make a new topic about it as it is easier to refer to from our bug tracker or in chat.

I haven't looked at the cause of the crash, I will do so when I have more time and jonwil doesn't beat me to it.

I looked at both crashes.

C4Smoke's does not seem to be related to the obelisk scenario he's describing. I don't know what caused this though (something with the menu system it seems).

Ethenal's happens in or near some jump-related code, I'm hoping jonwil knows the name of the function in which it crashed since I don't.

I have analyzed both crash dumps in this thread and given StealthEye all the information I can about whats going on.

Seems we can't identify what happened in these dumps.
