Don't forget about the teammates who leave when your team loses a couple of buildings. It is so frustrating because the other team is usually still at the base attacking. They don't realize that the game can still be salvaged. Why can't some people finish what they start?

Why can't some people finish what they start?This happens I think more so because they believe they won't lose any points from the ladder, but they really lose more since they can't gain any more points if they leave, thus people will surpass them.

finally some1 replied well anyway i normally play 1 on 1 ladder games (coz no1 on ur team can ruin the game 4 u and make u lose)so if they quit i dont go up any ranks coz it says due to server shut ()down u seem all to think i meant 10 on 10 ladder games

The only time I will quit a game while I am losing (or winning)is when my wife taps me on the shoulder and gives me the "wink wink nudge nudge." I am sorry!!! I am quitting!!! Besides after a minute or two - I will be back!!!!!!what kind of bees don't fly Noobies! [December 10, 2002, 11:02: Message edited by: joroe34]

My team(GDI) had 2 people and other team(Nod) had 3. A person joins for Nod cus they have more people. I tell the host who is on the other team that the teams should be even. No reponse. After mention it a couple more times I realizes the host didn't care. Then another person joins my team only to switch to Nod cus they have more people. Now 2 vs 5. What none of them realized is we already took out the Hand and the Nod Refinery. We then took out the Power Plant and the Airstrip. Three Nod players quit and one switched to our team, leaving the host of the game alone. LOL [December 10, 2002, 15:37: Message edited by: DragonFg]

Um if it was a 1 on 1 game you would have only gotten 0-1 points for winning. No point on doing 1 on 1 games for points.
