I noticed this since 3.4.4 that the railgun is cut in half in 3rd person some times idk what causes it and how it happens but it does sometimes.

I think the railgun rendered a lower LOD (Level Of Detail). In that LOD level there is no tip of the railgun... I think it cannot be fixed it's a Renegade engine restriction.

It's because you have a custom char, if you use default chars and not the ones that wasn't used in a pt, it will work fine.

But if it's a custom char like that it will not and never has render the railgun all the way.

afaik and seen.

that is correct, the use of model replacement in general will make the game display the lowest lod for stock models.
