only if the server allows to select team. If this is off (normally it is "off" on WOL ladder servers) there is no way to ensure that you both are on the same side. In this case all you can do is check the number of players. If a game is 11-8, chances are excellent that you both join the smaller team. Uberfah

No, if there are no players in one side, the game will not start...If the game started and the player left right after the game started, the game will restart/end.

Of course yannie was discussing the question if he and his friend can play together against OTHER players (and make sure that they are on the same team). Obviously, playing against a Zero Team is not that funny Uberfah

Remember, it's Nod, not NOD.

ACK is just pointing out the fact that it is not NOD it is Nod, as in the land east of Eden that Cain was told to wander after killing his brother.
