I am on the last level on Renegade - Stomping on Holy Ground. I have got to the part where i have to fight Dr. Petrova. I have killed the initiates behind the bars. I keep dying really quick. Can anyone help.

don't kill the visceroids if you make the normal troopers into visceroids with chem spray..... you can allow them to attack petrova and she'll not be able to kill them.... thats when you pop out and unload the chaingun into her head.....

You must really suck at these games if you can't beat the campaign without some help.

They are behind bars before the battle, but they will attack you during the battle if you don't kill them. Worse, the visceroids, also behind bars before the battle, will actually heal Petrova.

But I found Petrova really easy...it took me just about 30 seconds to kill her with the laser rifle, and I took only about 50 damage...and this was on "Commando".

Now Raveshaw was a real b*tch, must have taken me 7 or 8 trys to kill him. :oops:

You can actually kill the visceroids behind bars BEFORE fighting Petrova at all.

You will notice that the battle doesn't start until you have crossed a certain point into the room where she starts out. I wipe out the blackhands, and then pick off the visceroids at my leisure BEFORE going into that room.

As far as winning against her....PIC, and the Rocket launcher do nicely.

I rush into the room, and hide behind the cage. then I pick off the BH'S in the room, before going back out to battle her majesty.

But you need to be patient until she stops moving. Get the pattern, and THEN fire when she is all done her little dance. She is realy quite easy to destroy if you can avoid getting hit.

Raveshaw was a bitch to kill. One time he jumped from his platform in between two of the Tiberium barrels and wouldn't die!

There is a very easy way. Before you walk to the boss, kill everything that you see. Then drop C4s around Dr. Petrova (Do not go so close). When the battle started Click.....KaBooooooom! Stroopers died 100%. This tactic is easy to do! try it.

Has anyone ever noticed a strange problem on the last part of the level, Stomping on Holy Ground? I escorted Sydney up to the second last level in the missile silo. I have cleared the way up to the last level where the control panel is located but Sydney refuses to follow (or lead) up to the top level. She won't budge which means that I can't finish the game. Any ideas? Thanks.
