What is the problem? Your account can't simply be "messed up".

I would be worried about you impersonating someone else, just to get there account deleted, not that I am think you are, but it does look that way, yes?

Look I cant retrieve my password because the email adres i registered with is no longer existant. I cant make a new account because it says I have one and thats enough.

If I asked it to retrieve my password it would send it to my non existant email address and I would never get it.
