It's shooting at a building solely for points, knowing that it won't help ones team pointwhoreing is when a whore goes to the opposite base (usually from a tunnel or side) and shoots at a building for the whole game just for points so they can see thier name as number 1. most of the time their team loses and they bitch about it next game....

WOL nick:RobotFud <--- if you see me in a game you better run away and hide in the refinery you pansy :bomb:

Most known form of point whoring exists on hourglass when you get on the hill and shoot to refinery. then you can't do it, unless it's an organized attack (5 arties shooting from the hill to DESTROY ref).

NO! PPL! Plz understand me. I used the situation, that after half of battle time passed there were no arties on the hill and I got there and start bombarding Nod's ref and once I decided to stop it i threw last 6 rockets and I was returning to my base and when I was half a way to it and I hear "Nod tiberium ref destroyed" I say "I love you Eva, will we have a date" ok however dudes, I always use 'point whoring' when it's like proper building bombarding you understand, gr8 greetz

I think it's ok when you have one thing in mind..

whore - get money - get beter stuff - help team out more but unless it helps the team somewhere down the line welll it's pretty sucky

Bahhh.. point whores on hill in hourglass don't wanna help team..just themselves! Its a n00bish tactic in my opinion if someone is reping it and you stay up there ALL game just backing away to rep and continue point whoring...either u get mvp or don't loose pts on ladder. But either way your not helping your team out. Thats why BCServ is the best cause they kick ppl if they don't get off hill with mrl/ma's. YES it IS a NOOBISH tactic!

"Point Whoring" can be usefull on Hourglass if you are distracting the enemy from an APC rush to the defense building. Just thought i'd point that out. Anyone remember me? Probably not...

Its a very n00bish tactic.

But it's not all bad.

I do it often just to rack up cash, then i usually apc rush.

Its good in that sense, but don't do it the entire game if you want a good game.

well, if you let them destroy the ref you dont get much cash. its really a lose-lose situation. they destroy ref, you dont get any money. you reapair ref, they get more points. (C&C Hourglass)

Point Whore

1. One who whores points with no intention of helping the team.
2. One who partakes in a game with the sole purpose of gaining points for themselves and themselves only.

Example: Shooting a building for the whole game, not even attempting to help the team advance or win.

This act often results in the culprit earning the alleged n00b title.

I don't have too much of a problem with point whoring as long as they don't sit there the whole time. Say, if they have an artillery and are at some building, and then their own team base comes under attack, so they go and help out vehicles or something, then I'm cool with that. But I can't stand it when they complain about their team doing poorly im going to say waht i think about poinwhoring, until 3 days ago i did not know what it was, now i think its a moronic word, put it this way, if it takes 2 techs/hotties to repair a building it wil slow the enimie, second if u are on the losing team u have 2 ways to win, go on the offensive, or place a beacon, point whoring is one way to mess up the enimie, i often take out the refinery in mesa all by myself when im GDI, have u ever entered a game a see you team down 2000 points and u walk in and there is no planed defense??? cause frankly if u dont go commando, you have no hope to live, but yes, i do go back and defend the base, hell, in mesa ive always say "team defend the rear, mass stealth tanks are comming!", what happpens, i pick up a meduim and no one helps me cause they want to attack a powerplant!

to sum my words up, pointwhoring is good, but go back to defend when u even see 1 unit come!

In my opinion, you do whatever you can for your team, I don't mind being an engineer, i actually find it quite interesting how dumb people who are in a tank are though when it comes to a hottie repairing them. engineers are great, and even if you suck, when you use them you still can feel good about yourself.

another topic should be discussed here.

What the hell is camping?

What are tunnel beacons?

Depends on how it's used. If that point whore ties up the entire enemy defense while your team does something useful, more power to them.

IMHO, there's a very simple solution to hill-campers on hourglass: buy one of your own artillery, and blow them right off the hill. It's not that big of a problem, really- if there's a whore on the hill, that's one less person that's on defense at their base. I don't see how that can be called base-to-base, either- the top of the hill is the middle of the map. I've never seen anyone complain about any of the other maps where you can hit the enemy base from the middle of the map.

I'm an engineer about 3/4 of the time I play, most often because nobody else wants to give up their attacks for a little repair time. The surprising thing is that, by the end of the game, I'm usually in one of the top 3 spots on my team.

Just for you, furyman77:

A camping scenario: You're Nod, both teams have all their buildings, but GDI's winning by 2500 points with only 5 minutes left in the game. GDI just "camps" in their base, because they know the ONLY way for you to win would be to attack their base, destroy a building and roll in. As a result, they don't attack you much at all, so their defense is rock-solid and you still have no way of winning. This is fair in a way, but it makes the game VERY boring.

if it wins the game, its vaild.

Next people will be arguing about 'snipe whoring' - those people who buy a sniper and run around all game without defending the base and whatnot.

Its all BS. If you are hitting a building, someone is repairing it. If someone is repairing it, then they have one less player in combat. Simple.

I think this is specially true on larger servers where games invariably end with a points win for one team.

My advice would be:

Dont like it, dont do it! But dont bitch about it cause you may as well quit Ren right now.

i dont think point whoring is a bad thing at all now .. unless u dont defend ... AS GDI IN MESA ... if u hear "POWER PLANT IS UNDER ATTACK" .. and u are in the tunnel thing shotting the Power Plant with an MRLS ... u dont deserve ther points u are getting, but if u run back to kill off the stank .. i have no issues with point whoring, i mean unless u nuke, how else do u score points??

Well when you are in mesa pounding the weapons factory all day, you win.

Every vehicle which is build by gdi blows up.

The only way for gdi to destroy you is by killing you with infantry.

But the nod art is a good anti-infantry weapon :twisted:

that is vary true actually, i mean, ive seen some mass BH killing the WF good, then Arty's rip it apart, but then again, meds wont be killed if they are in WF when they are buyin it, but MRLS are dead outta the can, but i dont see nod controling it that often, but ive hada light tnak pounding the BArracks, it was fun cause they always shot the arty and not me.

ne ways i think this line covers this topic good

"if you arn't point whoring, what are you doing???"

Well it depends if there are some techs repairing the pointwhore.

And if it's a 10 player game or more.

In big servers I see only pointwhores who only play for ladder points nothing more.

But hell in the end everyone is pointwhoring most of the times.
