Im still disgruntled by the generating sectors problem im having on my first serious map(pacific). Terrains all good and set with all the doohikies but i still cant get my comp to make enough vm and my friend got the same results on his comp. He was using 98 me Xp. We both couldnt get our harddrives to make VM space as well. I need advice on what to do if possible to get my lazy ass comp to do what i want it to do. I shut down all non essential programs that use up VM. Ive been told to generate sectors before vis work, so i dont know if thats entirely wat i should do. No matter what i havnt gotten my map passed the final stages of making a map. Help would be appreciated. i even got a program to manage non needed crap on my comp ,sigh.

... and if i dont respond any time soon it will be me focusing on map for a while.
