I don't mind you doing screenshots of my map on your own, as long as they are real screen shots and not touched up, and also if you want to do your own description then I ask that you send me a proof copy first before posting it and allowing me to say yes or no at that time. In other words, before you post your description of my map, I must OK it after I read what you write. But as long as you follow these requests then all will be ok.

Most ip setups have it that way, uploads take a lot longer then the downloads. Lol.
