Right, i don't know about anyone else but when i'm playing in snipe only games people rarely use the radio commands.

Typical situation, just spotted the enemy in the powerplant... i would quickly press Ctrl+Alt+5 (Attack the powerplant) maybe followed by a Ctrl+0 (Enemy spotted). Or if EVA says a structure is under attack, i'll either say "I'm in position" or "Attack that structure".

Now you'd be surprised how many people reply to it saying, "n00b, no base destruction or i'll kick". :rolleyes:

Who agrees with me on this?
What other radio commands have you seen used, or use yourself?

I tend to use "Defend the XXX" even when the building has been destroyed. SOme people shoud idiot the building is dead. Other people, mainly in my clan and who play on the server a lot will go to the structure to look and kill whoever is in it (normally a sniper or SBH). However if i accidently press "Defend the XXX" I immediatly press "Negative" to cancel the order if it was a mistake.

I hardly ever use them. Usually I'm too busy being someone's human target.

Usually I first hit, "Enemy Spotted!", then shout "Defend the !". They usually understand that the enemy is by that structure.

I actually have them all written down on a piece of paper that's turned yellow with age.
