Hey guys (and girls....equal ops and all that) don't you think you're a little tough on the noobs through this forum. I've just bought this game but have not played online yet.

Incidentally ive got a 56k modem is that good enough to get a decent game speed online? just a question

Back to the point.....I think when i do get online ill be making some of the mistakes you guys are bitchin about, ill try not to but it might happen. The point of this is lighten up....help the noobs to stop making mistakes instead of just bitchin when they do cock up, you were all new to the game once.

Anyway thats what i think....Be Happy and dont take this too harshly, im not trying to offend anyone

Yes, 56K will get you a decent game in servers below 10 people.

Newbies are different than n00bies.

Go to n00bstories.com to find out the difference.

No problem. We were all newbies once. (Ack, Dante, Crimson, Blazer, L3f7h4nd, and any other people who had the initial beta, might disagree with that)

As far as I know, only ACK and I on that list had the beta (legally)...

Yep...I only got the aircraft beta, and that's because Devinoch and I were cool.

do u guys remeber that great felling when u first played renegade. with the ion personal cannon. back then we all used to think it was the best weapon. every thing was enjoyable. and there was that renegade demo. it dosnt seem that good anymore but it was the best back in the day. boy do i miss that felling of holding a repair gun for the first time.

Yeah that was way before I discovered the Stealth Black Hand and I thought the Mammoth was the bes tank in the game.
