With my new rig, I'm able to create much better terrain... These are three preview images of the Zama level, totally refurbished from its original condition.

The dark blue portion in the lake is the spring which feeds it. Walk up to it and you'll see water rippling from the pressure of the water pressing against the surface.

The ore mines.

This shows what the video didn't, a more complete preview of Zama Flying.

Hmm, looks nice. I cant wait to play.

Will it look like that in game, or will it change some more?

The water foliage is a good idea, and the caverns look good. A close-up shot of the spring would be nice.

Yep, without your help, I'd still be stuck with a piece of shit computer...

But hey, look at it this way, you're helping me help you and everyone else by being able to work on this stuff a lot quicker than I normally would.
