Inspired by Imdgr8one, I thought it would be fun to see how long you have all gone playing a single game straight-through?

Mine was Red Alert 1. Got up early (NOT an easy thing to do during summer holidays), say about 8AM played all day, was on with only breaks for bathroom and food, didn't stop until 6AM the next morning when I saw the sun come up. 22 hours, baby! Drooled on the keyboard a few times too from my mouth hanging open all the time.

Total Annihilation is an awesome game, my bro and I still play it, but the longest time I ever played would have to be Renegade, 4P.M. to 1:30A.M.

With out any brakes, for food bathroom nothin, (I had a water bottle next to my computer to drink out of, and one of those little pie thing you buy for like a dollar or soemthin)

One day I walked into my big brother Marc's room. He had a playstation back then (4 or 5 years ago) and I was amazed by what he had on his screen. Not a wrestling game, not a sports game, but an overhead view of an incredibly huge battle. I sat there, and watched him play for 2 hours, loving the huge barbed wire networks he build along with flame towers and tesla coils. After that, I'd sneak into his room everyday and play forever. I think the longest I ever played was from 8AM-5PM. Tons of games. Whoa, I never seemed to have mentioned what game. C&C RedAlert for playstation.

Yeah, BF1942 has a habit of making me lose track of time.

I can't wait 'till Battlefield Vietnam comes out (sometime next year).
