Rankings are gone..dont' ask why though you won't get an answer. They will just tell you a new future is at hand. What ever the hell that is suppose to mean. They don't like giving real answers to any problems.

im so pissed at EA they seem to own everything now,(watch out microsoft mabie they will make OS's!) i know they have owned westwood and maxis for some time now, but they've gone too far and i hope somthing's done about it, and they better not be assholes and shut down maxis, it'll be the end of the world with out "The Sims" and "Simcity" and all there other great games.

EA probably cut funding for westwood because they saw that westwood was making way better game than them and thought that sooner or later westwood would own them, although fearing this there were morons because they thought renegade 2 wasn't going to sell because renegade playing is down a few percentage points when in fact that was probably because EA made some problems happen in renegade servers to make less people play for that time and took statistics from that time only
