ACK Y don't you, there asking how to contact the anti cheat group, the ppl making the anti cheat program you know, but any way ACK, they want to help with it, so unless you are using cheats, which i doubt, then you should help them to get in contact with the anti cheat group.

I think Dante is working on it try contacting him.

Yeah um anti cheat groups are gay..... Like pro cheat groups... Its quite simple, when you find out how to stop cheating you yourself will know the flaws in your own system and exploit them.

Unfortunately, as I understand the group in question signed a NDA (Non Disclosure Agreement) with EA, so thats why there is so much secrecy going on. They won't be able to take on any other helpers because anyone new is not privy to the NDA, and EA wouldn't like that. Only EA has the privilege of affirming any changes made to the team, however in most if not all cases, once a team is made and signs an agreement, no one would be added unless something unexpected happens and they are in desperate need of new people.

what is so important about an anti cheat program that needs to be that secret?
what if a group of people decided to make there own anti cheat program?

Well, since the agreement is with EA, I guess that makes it an OFFICIAL program...

To make an anti-cheat program they have to know how the cheats work. Do you think it would be a good idea to make this information public?
