u have no BIOS...with out that..you wont be able to start the computer.....it would be a blank screen.....

try pressing different button to get into it at start up...its sumtimes F1,del,tab ...yada yada...hmm could try just stikin the bootdisk in the floppy drive and it should do the rest...but i think XP dont need a boot disk its all on the CD...

set your bios up to boot cdrom, c, a.

Insert the Win XP Pro disc in your drive. Reboot your computer. When your computer finishes POST, it will say 'press any key to boot from cd...'

press any key

then you can delete your partion and create a new one.
