I don't believe there was ever a "no rap" rule initiated. Just because you don't like rap doesn't mean that all the rap radio stations are going to go away, does it?

Say what you want about rap, but it is by far THE most profitable music genre - it costs the least to produce and outsells nearly everything else, plus, people who are rap fans tend to be more devoted than fans of artists in other genres. Bottom line, rap is here to stay.

AircraftkillerCurrently in #n00bstories, we're running a Shoutcast server so selected people can be a DJ for the channel.

Currently I'm the one playing music. Metallica right now.

Got about 90 other songs to play, though, ranging from 80s, classic rock, techno, trance, metal, hard rock, soft rock, all that great stuff. No rap, no R&B, no country.

Thats what our crappy DJ said. Hell dude im the one that wants rap n RnB

Yeah, while sacrificing the standards for good music with lyrics like "lets smack dat hoe up fuck shit damn now lets go inject ourselves with crack cocaine and pay for some hookerz"

Very few in #n00bstories want rap music on... So it doesn't get played.

LOL that radio promotional was great! DO MORE.

Rap music doesn't introduce lyrics such as the aforementioned - it is a reflection of a culture that already exists in urban America. Just because some people can't identify with it doesn't mean they should bash it. That's no better than bashing Chinese, Jews, or any other culture.

Well, says who? What happened if a Nazi culture popped up in sub-urban America? Would it be wrong to bash that, too?

I bash whatever I want.. there are no "politically correct" guidelines for bashing things. I bash that shit too. Fuck PC and FUCK YOU.

I am 15 and i like to listen to it.... am i old?

Hmmm well theres a punk group who listens to rock
Theres a thug group who listens to rap theres a sk8 group who listens to both and theres aNo group that listens to that old shit

At least thats how it works in NY philip67Hey DJ, nice promo man.

And too IceSword7, basically who ever the DJ is, and what he likes, is what he plays at the time he is on air.

Last night i did a 2 hour request one, where i got requests, downloaded the songs, it worked very well.

You just have too find the DJ's who like the same music as you, and will play them.

Or ask nicley, for a couple of tunes.

Yes that is perfect that is what it should be.
