It really, really sucks.

1. Make each column look seperate from the others. (Take out the border around the big table)
 2. Make all of the blocks like "Recent Topics" and "Search" the same width.
 3. The Navigation panel looks ugly and it doesn't match the site.
 4. You need a different banner, the current one of the earth doesn't match the site, and doesn't even have anything in it to tell you what the site is. ("Eclipse", Make a banner that has the earth covering half of the left side, that shows the US, or UK, or which ever and has a large shadow covering it, than the moon half way between the earth and the other side of the banner. And include "Eclipse" covering the center of the banner with different effects and whatever.)
 5. Either he didn't care and wasn't even trying to make the site's layout look even half way decent or he can't.

First off all get rid of that ugly font. Use Verdana (like most sites are using) or something similar at size 10-12.

Lose the marquee it makes the site hard to navigate. Little annoying when I have to wait for the link to appear again.

Get your site name, EclipseGame, in the header. From just looking at the site I do not understand what it is about. Try to get some characters from games in there so it is more understandable.

I dislike the "under construction" symbols. They do not clash with the menu Aprime made. Maybe you could just make the link go to an "under construction" webpage.

Previous points that still haven't been dealt with.

It looks wa beter tahn some attempts I have seen posted on the forums but I agree with Sir Phoenixx on the following points:

Quote:2. Make all of the blocks like "Recent Topics" and "Search" the same width.

3. The Navigation panel looks ugly and it doesn't match the site.

I dislike the "under construction" symbols. They do not clash with the menu Aprime made. Maybe you could just make the link go to an "under construction" webpage.

Assuming point 3 refers to the right panel...

But I think a marquee would be ok if you were able to move it yourself aswell as it autoscrolling.

Dude, your layout sucked ass. And he's still using it, the only thing that has been changed with your crappy layout was that he removed the main border.

...OK.

1. It was free.
 2. He isn't using it.
 3. It's not the layout you're thinking about.
 4. I wasn't talking to you, so take care of your own buisness.

What do you mean, make all the blocks the same width, also I think that the Marque or however it's spellt is fine there. Also, how should I make the navigation bar look? If i thought of something to have a poll on, as well as getting a few skins, or even 1 skin, There would be no more under construction symbols.

The individual tables that enclose "Recent Topics" and "Search", make them the same size.

The navigation is way too out of place, I thought it was an ad until somebody said something. I would move the main navigation to the left side of the site and set it up like the other tables are - just simple words in a simple box; simple can often be better. In return, move the recent topics and search boxes over to the right side.

I would make the search table the same width as the one above it, too.

It might add more to the "feel" of the site if you didn't have the lighter-colored box behind the main content area either.

Should I move the Marquee thing to the right of the screen, and the navigation, to the left, BTW I am updating my site as I type, just the main section, nothing beyond the sections you can get to from the home page.

(I don't like to change everything at once, and it turns out, that wasn't what you wanted it to be like.) Do you think, I should completely make a new Navigation Bar? Or like a button for each of them?

I just uploaded the Morrowind section, and am going to bed now, I haven't tested it yet, so I don't know if it works or not.

Yes, maybe, yes.

(Create a generic button background, and make that the td background for all of the buttons and put text in front of that.)

Ohhhhhhhh ok, but what you said above was confusing to me, I think you told me to make a generic button back ground, and put it into the table, then put in some text, is that what you meant?

The code below would make a table(<TABLE></TABLE> ) with one row in (<TR></TR>) and 3 cells (<TD></TD>). IF you type your text in between the first set of (<TD>) tags then it would place the test in the first table cell.

You can add additional rows using the (<TR>) tags and also cells withing them (<TD>). The border attribute allows us to see what we are doing whilst testing.

<TABLE BORDER="1" WIDTH="100%">

<TR>
```

<TD</TD>
```

<TD</TD>
```

<TD</TD>
```

</TR>
```

</TABLE>

General HavocThe code below would make a table(`<TABLE></TABLE>`) with one row in (`<TR></TR>`) and 3 cells (`<TD></TD>`). IF you type your text in between the first set of (`<TD>`) tags then it would place the text in the first table cell.

You can add additional rows using the (`<TR>`) tags and also cells withing them (`<TD>`). The border attribute allows us to see what we are doing whilst testing.

</TR>
```

</TABLE>

Ok, but what about the above stuff I am confused with, I knew about the table, and am already using tables in my site. Thanks anyway.
