Titan1x77There have been numerous complaints about locked threads and mod's deleting posts in the mod forum here.

so speedy059 opened new forums for people to come and ask there beginner's questions there without being flamed for it.

The only threads that get locked either a)have nothing to do with modding, b)have gotten out of hand, or c)have already been asked recently.

Threads are almost NEVER deleted, they're either moved or closed. The only time they're deleted is if the poster created a thread about the same thing several times for what ever reason.

No one here has EVER been flamed for just asking "beginner questions". If they're flamed it's for a different reason.

Go take this trolling bullshit somewhere else. This forum isn't a place for you to advertise other forums because you don't like this one.

Go hang out with your community rejects and stay there.
