I just did another mod to the forums to allow you to turn off viewing of Avatars and Signatures. Click on "Profile" (first link at the top), and scroll down... you'll find it. Select Yes or No and away you go.

Wow, turning off both of those really cuts down the length of posts significantly. Good job, I can read more posts now without having to scroll 20+ lines to see the reply.

Ah, that's better. No more gay signatures, and avatars.

I don't mind the avatars, it's just the spamigatures that are 2000 lines long.

All hail Crimson! (Or else!) "Crimson ha sempre ragione"

Good call, Crimson. That solved a couple different problems in one fell swoop.

Ahh very handy, I am liking the reduced work load on my mouse wheel thanks to this.

Thanks Crimson!

I agree with "Majiin Vegeta".

Wasn't there restrictions on size anyway.

Maybe just resize?

So you can spam faster? If it's too hard for you to click a single button than you need some real help.

And, resize that signature, or remove that lame image. Just because she added a feature to allow people to not see signatures doesn't mean she gave you permission to add large lame images to your signature.

Nobody allows flash sigs because you can't control it's content. Imagine if everyone thought it was "cool" and each adden 10 sigs w/ music. Or worse even, if people used Action script to redirect you to their site, or worse.

Never thought of it that way...

Oh well maybe flash signatures are not as good as thought
