Knew he'd be caught some time- dead or alive was the only question. It's a good thing they got him while he's still breathing; that way he can stand trial for what he's done.

Speech over. 0WN3D.

Dragon, two other people were captured with him as well as some pistols. I highly doubt 3 men with a few peices of crappy weapons would even attempt to take on 600 (reported on a few websites and tv stations) armed soldiers. They may be suicidal, but they arent that dumb.

Of course I did. The news reporter said that using the #4/#5 definition of 'sober'. You, with your obviously low intellect, took it with the #2 definition.

I don't know why you have to be such an ass. Could you explain to the "dumb American" why?
:rolleyes:

The Iraqi people now know for sure they won't see that bastard in power again!

Anyway, I wonder what Howard Deanie's thinkin. He based his entire campaign on the "failure" of the war.

Was it important to capture Saadam Hussein? Yep. With our international credibility totally shot, and a growing anti-American sentiment of the Iraq populace, we needed some sort of victory.

Let us not forget, that we didn't go into Iraq to capture Saadam. That wasn't ever on our agenda. We were offering him a safe passage out until the 11th hour.

We had to catch Saadam now, though, because there are no Weapons od Mass Destruction. No Nukes, No Chemical Stockpiles, no Nothing. THATS why we invaded Iraq, as a pre-emptive smack-down to avoid his use of WMDs.

Now, instead of crucifying George W Bush for blatantly ignoring international laws and treaties and using fear and misinformation the scare Americans into supporting this invasion, people will be praising GW Bush Jr for capturing Saadam. "Good Job President Bush, we finally caught Saadam, the very reason for our coming here."

:rolleyes:
